Plane With 16 On Board Missing In New Mexico

Rugged Sandia Range Scouted Despite Storm

Howling Blizzard Handicaps Rescue Spotting Craft

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Feb. 19 (AP) — A Trans World Airlines plane with 16 persons aboard vanished today in the fogbound mountains of northern New Mexico while on a 70-mile hop from Albuquerque to Santa Fe.

State police said it was almost certain the plane had crashed.

The only clue for searching parties was the report the plane had been heard at 7:30 a.m. flying low over Madrid, a small coal mining community in the northern tip of the Sandia Mountain range. The plane was en route from Albuquerque to Kansas City via Amarillo, Tex. and Topeka, Kan.

The entire area has been plagued by bad weather, the southern edge of a blizzard which has lashed the entire Rocky Mountain area and the western Great Plains since last night.

Bitterly cold weather, 10 to 20 degrees below zero faced ground and aerial searchers who were attempting to locate the missing plane.

Thick clouds covered the area, preventing swarms of search planes which poured into the area from seeing the ground.

State police and the Civil Air Patrol pushed ground parties into an area 75 miles square seeking word of the craft from isolated ranches.

The Civil Aeronautics Administration said if the lane, a Martin 404, had landed at any airstrip in the country, "we would know it immediately."

Thirteen passengers and a crew of three were aboard. The plane could carry as many as 40 passengers, TWA said.

Mardi Gras In New Orleans At Peak Tuesday

Millions Watch Festive Climax Of Pre-Lent Season

By HUGH MULLIGAN

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 19 (AP)—This bustling, modern port city that usually looks to the Civil War or the riverboat days for its memories goes medieval Tuesday for the annual madness called Mardi Gras.

In the Middle Ages, Mardi Gras meant one last fling before Lenten fasting set in, a tradition borrowed from the Greeks and Romans.

In New Orleans it means gaudy, spectacular parades, high society balls, acres of huge Canal Street filled with street maskers and red hot jazz blaring forth from every hotel and honky-tonk.

Thousands of visitors already have crammed into this historic old city, filling every available hotel and rooming house, bunking down in Pullman trains parked in railroad yards and some not sleeping at all.

For Mardi Gras is an all-day celebration, beginning at dawn when the first acrobat, buffoon or cowboy appears and ends when Rex, lord of misrule and king of carnival, and Comus, reigning knight of revelry, toast each other's health at midnight in a fashionable ball at the Municipal Auditorium.

By law it is a state holiday. Trolleys and traffic virtually stop in the business district. The mayor abdicates his desk and moves outside to a reviewing stand to pay homage to the various kings-for-a-day.

The first parade of the day will be staged by the Negroes, whose King Zulu wears a grass skirt, wields a hambone for a scepter and follows a parade route that is laid out only in his whims and fancies. Famed jazz trumpeteer Louis Armstrong once was King Zulu and his parade meandered all day long.

Then comes Rex, the king of Mardi Gras and lord of misrule, carrying out a parade tradition that began more than 75 years ago with the visit of Russian Grand Duke Alexis to New Orleans.

Rex's theme song is the nonsense ballad "If I Ever Cease to Love," because it was sung by a young actress of whom the Russian nobleman was enamored and became the hit of the first Rex parade.

The words go:

"If I ever cease to love
May the Grand Duke Alexis

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Feb. 19 (AP)— A taxicab driver testified today he saw Albert Fuller dash out of a nearby alley, jump into a waiting car and speed off a minute or so after A. L. Patterson was murdered in Phenix City, Ala.

The state already had produced testimony earlier in the day that former Chief Deputy Sheriff Fuller's fingerprints were found on Patterson's car but that Fuller had denied touching the automobile.

The testimony from taxi driver James R. Taylor highlighted the fifth day of Fuller's trial for the Patterson murder.

The ex-chief deputy claims he was in the county jail at the time of the killing.

Taylor was the last witness to testify today. Court recessed for the weekend and will be resumed at 9 a.m. Monday.

Taylor, who drives for a Columbus, Ga., cab company, said he was waiting for a traffic light to change near the scene of the slaying when he saw Fuller run from between two buildings half a block ahead and leap into a parked car whose right door was open.

The car took off "at a high speed" and ran through a red light at the next intersection, the witness continued.

Taylor testified he had heard gun shots only about a minute before he saw the fleeing figure he identified as the stocky 35-year-old defendant who was second in command of the sheriff's office then.

The witness said another man whom he couldn't identify was at the wheel of the waiting automobile, and that the lights of the car were on.

The place where he said he saw Fuller is located in the area where a previous witness told the jury he had seen a man running just a few seconds after the antivice crusading Patterson was slain last June 18.

It is just around a corner from the place where the slain nominee for attorney general of Alabama was getting into his car when he was assassinated.

Through rapid-fire questioning by Roderick Beddow, chief defense counsel, Taylor stuck to his story that he got a good look at Fuller

Bizarre Shooting Claims One Life In Miami Beach

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 19 (AP) — "Three-Fingers-Joe" Sylvester, 45, called a confidence man and race track swindler by police, apparently was mistaken for a burglar by his former father-in-law and shot twice today.

The father-in-law, Roy Brougher, 73, committed suicide while standing in the bathtub of the home where both lived in a well-to-do section here.

"Three-Fingers-Joe" is in critical condition in a hospital after undergoing surgery for removal of two bullets from his chest.

Investigator Charles O'Connor of the sheriff's Criminal Bureau of Investigation pieced the story together and arrived at the mistaken identity-suicide theory.

'Three-Fingers-Joe" told detective William Murray that he arrived home early today, and was about to unlock the front door when it flew open and Brougher stood before him holding a pistol. Two shots were fired, and Sylvester said he staggered back, crying, "Pop, it's me."

If "Three-Fingers" story is true, said O'Connor, Brougher went back into the living room, opened a telephone book to a section giving numbers for ambulances but failed to call for help. Instead, he went to the bathroom, stood in the tub and sent a bullet through his brain.

The dead man was the father of Ruth Brougher, former wife of "Three-Fingers." She resumed her maiden name after they were divorced.

Miss Brougher is free on $5,000 bond pending appeal from a manslaughter conviction for killing her boy friend, Murray Dubois, July 1.

The FBI arrested Sylvester and Ruth a year ago while they were still married and accused them of a race track swindle. Both pleaded innocent and were awaiting trial in Federal Court.

Flames Damage Seatrain Docks

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 19 (AP) — Fire whipped through docks of the Seatrain Lines Inc. at nearby Belle Chasse today, causing damage estimated at $200,000.

The docks, used for shuttling railroad cars onto barges, lie along the west bank of the Mississippi River about 11 miles southeast of New Orleans.

Firemen brought the 30-foot high flames under control after a two-hour battle. Cause of the fire was unknown.

JONESBORO, Feb. 19 (Special) — A 60-year-old World War I veteran resident of Friendship, took his own life today at a brother's home in Bienville Parish when he discharged a .16 gauge shotgun in his face.

The Friendship man was identified by Bienville Parish Coroner, Dr. R. C. Ferguson, as Lesbia L. Hall. The coroner who termed the shooting as suicide, stated the incident occurred around 1 p.m. Saturday.

Hall's brother, Jessie, stated that a few minutes prior to the shooting he had been talking with him and had mentioned nothing in relation to killing himself.

Jessie said that he had gone to the grocery store for some cigarettes and upon coming back found his brother slumped in a chair with the gun resting between his knees.

Funeral services will be held Sunday at 2 p.m. from the Presbyterian Church in Danville. Rev. Bob Ezell, pastor will officiate assisted by Rev. St. John.

Democrats In Surprise Move Seek Tax Slash

Everybody Would Get $20 Reduction Under Their Plan

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19 (AP) — House Democrats opened a drive today to cut personal income taxes by $20 for each taxpayer, and each dependent, effective next. Jan. 1.

The proposed cuts, opposed by President Eisenhower, will be tacked on to another tax measure sponsored by the President and sent into an expected hot floor debate next week.

House Speaker Rayburn announced that this strategy had been decided on today in a two-hour meeting of Democratic leaders and Democratic members of the Ways and Means Committee.

Rep. Martin of Massachusetts, the House Republican leader, immediatedly, declared: "It looks like a political move." Another top Republican said: "There will be no tax cuts this year."

Rep. Daniel A. Reed (R-NY), senior Republican on the Ways and Means Committee, called the Democratic proposal "absolutely irresponsible" and said, "As usual, the Democrats are putting politics above the nation's security."

Sen. Byrd (D-Va), chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, promptly announced opposition to this or any other tax reduction until the federal budget is balanced.

Byrd said the same proposal was offered and defeated in the Senate last year, and he had heard no proposals for it in the Senate this session.

Byrd said the flat $20 credit would cost about $1\frac{1}{2}$ billion dollars in revenues and because the government is operating on a deficit, "we would be forced to borrow that additional amount."

Rayburn said the Democratic majority on the Ways and Means Committee, in a meeting Monday, will support the President's proposal for a one-year extension of

They attended the luncheon in La-Casa tearoom with Miss Ramona Cormier, sponsor. The group comprised Frances Irene Goza, Tommie Vance, Claudine Price and Shirley McGowan.

On behalf of the club, President Conrad Lee made a small contribution of a gift to each young woman.

The chruch board of Southside Methodist church, Pete J. Medak, president, last Sunday presented a plaque to honor and reconize Dr. Irma S. Jones for her kindness shown this new church of which she is an honorary member. A church school bears her name.

Storm Kills 19 Persons; Fury Abates

By UNITED PRESS

At least 19 persons were dead in the widespread storm area, which spread eastward Saturday to the Mississippi and southward into Texas.

In addition, 16 persons were missing on a Trans World Airliner, overdue in snowy weather at Santa Fe., N.M.,and a rural mailman was missing in a mountainous section of Colorado.

Snowdrifts at Aspen, Colo., were so deep that skiers had to rescue a St. Bernard dog.

The storm struck its most vigorous blows in Colorado and Wyoming Friday and buffeted Nebraska and South Dakota Saturday.

Bus driver Orville Ramsey and his seven passengers narrowly escaped death on a mountain highway between Durango and Montrose, Colo., when a snowslide hit the bus broadside and shoved it 75 feet off the road.

The vehicle came to rest on a pile of rubble from an abandoned mine. On either side of the mine dump, 25 feet wide, there was a sheer drop of 1,500 feet to the floor of the Animas River canyon.

Three other busses were stalled in Colorado and Wyoming but passengers managed to stay comfortable until relief vehicles shuttled them to railroad stations.

Aboard one of the busses, 19 persons were stranded for more than 24 hours at the Continental Divide bus station on U.S. 30 before snow plows rescued them and led them into Rawlins, Wyo.

On another mountain road in Colorado, five California motorists were hurt when their car skidded into a semi-trailer truck. The truck driver and a passenger leaped from the cab and watched it plunge down a 300-foot embankment.

The bliazzard's fringe brought snow and bitter cold to New Mexico. Througnout the storm area, snowfall ranged from 30 inches near Aspen to two inches on the

George Predicts Senate Victory For Trade Bill

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19—UP—Sen. Walter F. George (D-Ga) Saturday predicted victory in the Senate for President Eisenhower's tariff-cutting foreign trade program which was approved by the House.

The veteran senator, who has steered several trade measures through the Senate in past years, conceded there would be a sharp fight to restrict the program. However, he anticipated final approval without changes.

"I don't think it will be as hard fought as it was in the House," George told a reporter.

George now is chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations committee. Formerly, he was chairman of the finance committee which handles such reciprocal trade legislation.

The House voted 295 to 110 to approve the overall administration program. However, the key test on the controversial measure came on a 206-199 vote by which the House rejected a strong bid by protectionist-minded congressmen to trim the President's tariff-cutting powers.

Senate approval of the measure was bolstered by a prediction from Chairman Harry F. Byrd (D-Va.) of the Senate Finance committee. He said he will call a meeting of the committee Wednesday to set dates for hearings. He forecast approval.

The bill would give Mr. Eisenhower three main tariff-cutting powers. He would have authority to

'Phantom Burglar' Lives Five Years In Cave By Ocean

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 19 —A fantastic tale by a man who said he had been living in a cliffside cave on San Francisco's ocean front for five years may have cleared up the mystery of a "phantom burglar."

Kip Hing Jui, 33, a native of China arrested today told police he had lived in a cave five years and hadn't spoken with another human being in that time.

Kip, dirty and ragged, was picked up after police had been called on a report a prowler had been seen.

The cave Kip said he had occupied was not immediately located. He told police it was so well concealed "you could never find it."

Kip, booked on suspicion of burglary, said he came to the United States with his father in 1936. Later he served in the Army but was released in 1945. He then became a waiter.

"My father died in 1949" he said. "My mother was still in China and was being held by the Communists. With us, family is everything. I had no family. I felt ashamed and alone. I decided to commit suicide."

But Kip became unnerved when he looked down on the cold waters under the Golden Gate Bridge, from which he had planned to jump. He tried wading to his death in the ocean near Seal Rocks. But he turned back.

"I walked up the side of the cliff," he said. "I found a cave and I've been sleeping there ever since."

Woman, 3 Men Killed As Plane Hits Cornfield

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 19 (AP) —A woman and three service men were killed early today when a war surplus plane crashed into a muddy central Illinois cornfield during a rainstorm.

The victims were tentatively identified as Marine Staff Sgt. Ray Brezeale, stationed at Camp Lejeune, N. C., Brezeale's wife, Gina, and two Navy enlisted men en route to Kansas City, Mo., whose names were James W. Jones and David Edward Robinson.

The Brezeales, apparently en route to Mrs. Brezeale's home at Jefferson City, Mo., from New River, N. C., had taken off from Terre Haute, Ind., where they stopped to refuel, shortly after midnight.

The plane, a twin-engine war time Army trainer, was north of its course for St. Louis when it ploughed into the earth near Loami, about 15 miles west of Springfield.

A Civil Air Patrol search for the craft was being organized when Larue Jacobs and Elmer Koke of Loami found the twisted wreckage about 10 a.m. There apparently were no witnesses to the crash.

Former High-Ranking MVD Agent Interprets Power Struggle

A Soviet Expatriot Peeps Inside The Kremlin

EDITORS NOTE — Yuri A. Rastvorov, author of the following exclusive United Press Dispatch, is the former high-ranking Soviet MVD agent who broke with Moscow a year ago.

Born in Russia 33 years ago, Rastvorov served in the Red Army as a lieutenant colonel in intelligence work until his chief, Lavrenti P. Beria, was purged and executed in December, 1953. He slipped out of the Soviet mission in Japan a month later and asked asylum in the United States "to live like a decent human being." Little is known about Rasvorov's occupation or headquarters.

He is employed in the United States but is living incognito. This report of his views on the recent Soviet government crisis was obtained by the United Press through official intermediaries.

By YURI A. RASTVOROV
WRITTEN FOR UNITED PRESS

The shakeup in the Kremlin marks a new phase in the struggle for power inside my former homeland. This struggle will go on. Its next victim may well be Premier Nikolai Bulganin.

Georgi Malenkov, it should be remembered, was made premier right after Stalin's death. He really lost his power just a few days later in March, 1953, when Nikita Krushchev took over leadership of the Communist party. Now Malenkov has been made the scapegoat for the serious mistakes of the past, particularly in agriculture where Krushchev himself was to blame. Malenkov is finished, and he may be liquidated soon.

One of the most important things is this: After 36 years in power, the Soviet leaders have tried and failed to build up a collective agricultural system. Now they face the problem of not knowing what to do next about agriculture. They are afraid - afraid to abolish the collective system or even to make adjustments in it toward a more capitalistic system. Even a little concession would be the end of the state-that's why they are afraid.

It is very interesting to note from my own life in Russia—that the feeling among many members of the Communist party was strongly against collective farming. This was especially so during World War II. People in the street, on the farms and even officers in the security organs talked openly about the fact that the collective system wasn't working in Soviet agriculture. We expected something to happen.

The peasants take no initiative under the system. They work just enough to get by. New lands are not producing what they should. It is certain that the Soviet Union today has inadequate food. And what do the Soviet rulers see at the other end of the tunnel. A population increase of 3 million every year to feed:

Russia has many, many problems. But I am sure that the agricultural and general economic picture inside Russia is much worse than anybody expected.

After Stalin died nobody had enough power to grab unchallenged leadership in Russia. That was why the collective leadership concept was followed in the early days of March, 1953.

Malenkov made one very important mistake when he let the top Communist post go to Krushchev. It took Stalin 25 years to become a complete dictator. All this period he stayed at the head of the Communist party because he knew that only there could he hold power inside Russia.

Krushchev and the people around him learned Stalin's lesson well. That's why Krushchev in two years gained the popularity and power much faster than Malenkov. He was in the driver's seat of the party.

Krushchev today is not in the position Stalin was in 1935 after he

The docks, used for shuttling railroad cars onto barges, lie along the west bank of the Mississippi River about 11 miles southeast of New Orleans.

Democrats In Surprise Move Seek Tax Slash

Everybody Would Get $20 Reduction Under Their Plan

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19 (AP) — House Democrats opened a drive today to cut personal income taxes by $20 for each taxpayer, and each dependent, effective next. Jan. 1.

The proposed cuts, opposed by President Eisenhower, will be tacked on to another tax measure sponsored by the President and sent into an expected hot floor debate next week.

House Speaker Rayburn announced that this strategy had been decided on today in a two-hour meeting of Democratic leaders and Democratic members of the Ways and Means Committee.

Rep. Martin of Massachusetts, the House Republican leader, immediatedly, declared: "It looks like a political move." Another top Republican said: "There will be no tax cuts this year."

Rep. Daniel A. Reed (R-NY), senior Republican on the Ways and Means Committee, called the Democratic proposal "absolutely irresponsible" and said, "As usual, the Democrats are putting politics above the nation's security."

Sen. Byrd (D-Va), chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, promptly announced opposition to this or any other tax reduction until the federal budget is balanced.

Byrd said the same proposal was offered and defeated in the Senate last year, and he had heard no proposals for it in the Senate this session.

Byrd said the flat $20 credit would cost about 1½ billion dollars in revenues and because the government is operating on a deficit, "we would be forced to borrow that additional amount."

Rayburn said the Democratic majority on the Ways and Means Committee, in a meeting Monday, will support the President's proposal for a one-year extension of

A feature of the luncheon of the Monroe Civitan Club the past week was the presence, as specially invited guests, of the members of the parish high school Lionettes, who did such a fine job selling fruit cake under Civitan Club sponsorship at Christmas.

They attended the luncheon in La Casa tearoom with Miss Ramona Cormier, sponsor. The group comprised Frances Irene Goza, Tommie Vance, Claudine Price and Shirley McGowan.

On behalf of the club, President Conrad Lee made a small contribution of a gift to each young woman.

The chruch board of Southside Methodist church, Pete J. Medak, president, last Sunday presented a plaque to honor and reconize Dr. Irma S. Jones for her kindness shown this new church of which she is an honorary member. A church school bears her name.

It will be placed on the altar rail at the pulpit.

Storm Kills 19 Persons; Fury Abates

By UNITED PRESS

At least 19 persons were dead in the widespread storm area, which spread eastward Saturday to the Mississippi and southward into Texas.

In addition, 16 persons were missing on a Trans World Airliner, overdue in snowy weather at Santa Fe., N.M., and a rural mailman was missing in a mountainous section of Colorado.

Snowdrifts at Aspen, Colo., were so deep that skiers had to rescue a St. Bernard dog.

The storm struck its most vigorous blows in Colorado and Wyoming Friday and buffeted Nebraska and South Dakota Saturday.

Bus driver Orville Ramsey and his seven passengers narrowly escaped death on a mountain highway between Durango and Montrose, Colo., when a snowslide hit the bus broadside and shoved it 75 feet off the road.

The vehicle came to rest on a pile of rubble from an abandoned mine. On either side of the mine dump, 25 feet wide, there was a sheer drop of 1,500 feet to the floor of the Animas River canyon.

Three other busses were stalled in Colorado and Wyoming but passengers managed to stay comfortable until relief vehicles shuttled them to railroad stations.

Aboard one of the busses, 19 persons were stranded for more than 24 hours at the Continental Divide bus station on U.S. 30 before snow plows rescued them and led them into Rawlins, Wyo.

On another mountain road in Colorado, five California motorists were hurt when their car skidded into a semi-trailer truck. The truck driver and a passenger leaped from the cab and watched it plunge down a 300-foot embankment.

The bliazzard's fringe brought snow and bitter cold to New Mexico. Throughout the storm area, snowfall ranged from 30 inches near Aspen to two inches on the

The general manager and the president of the News-Star—World Publishing Corporation, publishers of the Monroe Morning World and the Monroe News-Star, yesterday announced the appointment of managing editors on each of the two newspapers.

Walter B. (Bert) Hatten was named managing editor of the Morning World and W. G. Jasper was named managing editor of the News-Star. Both men have served on the editorial staffs of the two newspapers for the past several years.

The appointments were announced yesterday in a joint release by Richard Hale, general manager, and William H. Bronson, president of the News-Star—World Corporation. The appointments will become effective tomorrow.

George Predicts Senate Victory For Trade Bill

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19—UP—Sen. Walter F. George (D-Ga) Saturday predicted victory in the Senate for President Eisenhower's tariff-cutting foreign trade program which was approved by the House.

The veteran senator, who has steered several trade measures through the Senate in past years, conceded there would be a sharp fight to restrict the program. However, he anticipated final approval without changes.

"I don't think it will be as hard fought as it was in the House," George told a reporter.

George now is chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations committee. Formerly, he was chairman of the finance committee which handles such reciprocal trade legislation.

The House voted 295 to 110 to approve the overall administration program. However, the key test on the controversial measure came on a 206-199 vote by which the House rejected a strong bid by protectionist-minded congressmen to trim the President's tariff-cutting powers.

Senate approval of the measure was bolstered by a prediction from Chairman Harry F. Byrd (D-Va.) of the Senate Finance committee. He said he will call a meeting of the committee Wednesday to set dates for hearings. He forecast approval.

The bill would give Mr. Eisenhower three main tariff-cutting powers. He would have authority to

'Phantom Burglar' Lives Five Years In Cave By Ocean

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 19 —A fantastic tale by a man who said he had been living in a cliffside cave on San Francisco's ocean front for five years may have cleared up the mystery of a "phantom burglar."

Kip Hing Jui, 33, a native of China arrested today told police he had lived in a cave five years and hadn't spoken with another human being in that time.

Kip, dirty and ragged, was picked up after police had been called on a report a prowler had been seen.

The cave Kip said he had occupied was not immediately located. He told police it was so well concealed "you could never find it."

Kip, booked on suspicion of burglary, said he came to the United States with his father in 1936. Later he served in the Army but was released in 1945. He then became a waiter.

"My father died in 1949" he said. "My mother was still in China and was being held by the Communists. With us, family is everything. I had no family. I felt ashamed and alone. I decided to commit suicide."

But Kip became unnerved when he looked down on the cold waters under the Golden Gate Bridge, from which he had planned to jump. He tried wading to his death in the ocean near Seal Rocks. But he turned back.

"I walked up the side of the cliff," he said. "I found a cave and I've been sleeping there ever since."

Woman, 3 Men Killed As Plane Hits Cornfield

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 19 (AP) —A woman and three service men were killed early today when a war surplus plane crashed into a muddy central Illinois cornfield during a rainstorm.

The victims were tentatively identified as Marine Staff Sgt. Ray Brezeale, stationed at Camp Lejeune, N. C., Brezeale's wife, Gina, and two Navy enlisted men en route to Kansas City, Mo., whose names were James W. Jones and David Edward Robinson.

The Brezeales, apparently en route to Mrs. Brezeale's home at Jefferson City, Mo., from New River, N. C., had taken off from Terre Haute, Ind., where they stopped to refuel, shortly after midnight.

The plane, a twin-engine war time Army trainer, was north of its course for St. Louis when it ploughed into the earth near Loami, about 15 miles west of Springfield.

A Civil Air Patrol search for the craft was being organized when Larue Jacobs and Elmer Koke of Loami found the twisted wreckage about 10 a.m. There apparently were no witnesses to the crash.

Former High-Ranking MVD Agent Interprets Power Struggle

A Soviet Expatriot Peeps Inside The Kremlin

EDITORS NOTE — Yuri A. Rastvorov, author of the following exclusive United Press Dispatch, is the former high-ranking Soviet MVD agent who broke with Moscow a year ago.

Born in Russia 33 years ago, Rastvorov served in the Red Army as a lieutenant colonel in intelligence work until his chief, Lavrenti P. Beria, was purged and executed in December, 1954. He slipped out of the Soviet mission in Japan a month later and asked asylum in the United States "to live like a decent human being." Little is known about Rasvorov's occupation or headquarters.

He is employed in the United States but is living incognito. This report of his views on the recent Soviet government crisis was obtained by the United Press through official intermediaries.

By YURI A. RASTVOROV
WRITTEN FOR UNITED PRESS

The shakeup in the Kremlin marks a new phase in the struggle for power inside my former homeland. This struggle will go on. Its next victim may well be Premier Nikolai Bulganin.

Georgi Malenkov, it should be remembered, was made premier right after Stalin's death. He really lost his power just a few days later in March, 1953, when Nikita Krushchev took over leadership of the Communist party. Now Malenkov has been made the scapegoat for the serious mistakes of the past, particularly in agriculture where Krushchev himself was to blame. Malenkov is finished, and he may be liquidated soon.

One of the most important things is this: After 36 years in power, the Soviet leaders have tried and failed to build up a collective agricultural system. Now they face the problem of not knowing what to do next about agriculture. They are afraid - afraid to abolish the collective system or even to make adjustments in it toward a more capitalistic system. Even a little concession would be the end of the state-that's why they are afraid.

It is very interesting to note from my own life in Russia—that the feeling among many members of the Communist party was strongly against collective farming. This was especially so during World War II. People in the street, on the farms and even officers in the security organs talked openly about the fact that the collective system wasn't working in Soviet agriculture. We expected something to happen.

The peasants take no initiative under the system. They work just enough to get by. New lands are not producing what they should. It is certain that the Soviet Union today has inadequate food. And what do the Soviet rulers see at the other end of the tunnel. A population increase of 3 million every year to feed:

Russia has many, many problems. But I am sure that the agricultural and general economic picture inside Russia is much worse than anybody expected.

After Stalin died nobody had enough power to grab unchallenged leadership in Russia. That was why the collective leadership concept was followed in the early days of March, 1953.

Malenkov made one very important mistake when he let the top Communist post go to Krushchev. It took Stalin 25 years to become a complete dictator. All this period he stayed at the head of the Communist party because he knew that only there could he hold power inside Russia.

Krushchev and the people around him learned Stalin's lesson well. That's why Krushchev in two years gained the popularity and power much faster than Malenkov. He was in the driver's seat of the party.

Krushchev today is not in the position Stalin was in 1935 after he

Vandals Continue Duck Blind Raids

Another duck blind has been broken into on Black Bayou. This time persons scored the highest amount of damage that has been recorded in the recent episodes of vandalism and thefts occurring on the Bayou.

According to John Elmendorf, four boys were chased from his blind in the fourth lake on the bayou by an individual early Saturday afternoon after they had completely wrecked it.

He said apparently the youths had had a "merry time" in the blinds which is equipped with electric lights, running water, and telephone. Can goods had been opened all over the place and the radio was left playing loudly when the boys fled from the blind.

Entrance was gained to the structure according to Elmendorf by removing a portion of the steel encasement around the front door, punching a hole in the sheet-rock and then lifting the bar which secured the front door.

The stealing of decoys and other thefts have been prevelant on this lake and other portions of the bayou for the past several months Elmendorf stated.

The Ouachita Parish Sheriff Department last night were investigating the incident and had obtained a good description of the youths who were involved Elmendorf stated.

witnessed a tragedy in a town a few miles distant and it has caused him to present an appeal for greater safety of life on highways.

This man saw a father pick his little girl quietly and reverently, carrying his little daughter to the home where he lay her on a bed and collapsed.

The bus had been in front of the family's home and the father was in his car immediately behind the bus.

Mr. White writes as follows:

"Early one clear and beautiful morn, as I was driving into town, suddenly from behind a parked car, dashing across the street, a precious form.

"Following was her pet dog. He turned around. A driver's car skidded. Had he not brought to a sudden halt somebody's child might never again have talked.

Yes, this child had a song on its lips, but it died away in an instant for a motorist ran the little one down and it died at the close of day.

The U.S. Weather Bureau at Chicago said that "the blizzard-like conditions have lessened during the morning although at midday snow and blowing snow was reported from South Dakota to southern Kansas, including eastern Wyoming and Colorado."

Gusts at several points were recorded at 40 miles per hour.

The eastward edge of the cold air mass was moving slowly.

when the officer ran out of the alleyway and jumped into a waiting car.

Beddow tried to make the witness admit that he at first told state investigators he could not identify the man who ran out of the alley.

An FBI fingerprint expert, J. Everett Burke testified earlier that prints found on Patterson's car were identical with a set of Fuller's sent to the FBI by state investigators.

Defense attorneys sought to discredit the testimony that the defendant once denied touching the automobile, and the 35-year-old former lawman readily admitted to newsmen that the prints were his.

He said he grabbed the automobile for support while pulling a newspaperman out of the car several hours after the slaying.

Burke also testified that a palm print taken off the Patterson car was not made by Fuller, and is still unidentified.

During Burke's testimony Beddow announced that the defense would "make no denial" that the fingerprint was made by Fuller. He said it will show Fuller "put his hands on that car" after Patterson was killed. Beddow also indicated he would try to show that Fuller had opened the door of the car to let photographers make pictures of the interior.

Contesting state investigator Willie B. Painter's testimony that the accused man had told him he had been "very careful not to touch the car," Beddow tried to bring out that Fuller was taking narcotics at that time because of a serious back injury.

Patterson was slain 17 days after his successful campaign for attorney general of Alabama. He ran on a pledge to rid his home town of the vice for which it had become notorious.

Rayburn said also that the Democratic committee members decided to support an amendment to be offered by Rep. Mills (D-Ark) specifying a $20 credit on income taxes for each taxpayer and each of his dependents. The credit would be effective on income received on and after next Jan. 1, and withholding from pay envelopes would be reduced accordingly.

Congressional experts estimated the plan would remove four million families from the income taxpaying rolls. For example, if a man with a wife and child now pays $60 tax, he would owe no tax under the new proposal.

City Man Fatally Stricken While At Wheel Of Auto

A 58-year-old Monroe man, who evidently felt a heart attack coming on, stopped his car in the middle of Louisville avenue about 4 p.m. yesterday a few seconds before he died.

He was identified as Charley B. Harvey, an employee at Louisiana Training Institute.

According to Ouachita Parish Coroner, Dr. J. T. French, Harvey was driving in the 900 block of Louisville avenue, when he apparently felt the attack coming on and stopped his car in time to avoid a possible collision, which could have been injurious to others.

An unidentified woman, who was driving behind Harvey, stated that she had started blowing the horn on her car for Harvey to move out of the way, when she noticed that he was slumped in the seat of the vehicle. She summoned passersby who notified police.

Harvey was taken by Mulhearn ambulance to St. Francis Sanitarium, where he was pronounced dead on arrival.

According to Dr. French, members of Harvey's family reported that he had been suffering from a heart ailment for some time.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete late last night, but services will be under the direction of Edmonds Funeral Home of Jonesboro.

The storm was a mixed hardship and blessing, supplying a welcome blanket to the plains states to nourish the winter wheat and protect it from wind and erosion.

Residents of Sidney, Neb., said the storm there was the worst since the big blizzard of 1949. Biting winds piled snow into drifts that paralyzed transportation except for trains, which were running late.

The U.S. Weather Bureau at Chicago said that "the blizzard-like conditions have lessened during the morning although at midday snow and blowing snow was reported from South Dakota to southern Kansas, including eastern Wyoming and Colorado."

Gusts at several points were recorded at 40 miles per hour.

The eastward edge of the cold air mass was moving slowly.

A tornado warning was issued for a belt between Bryan and Lufkin, Tex., and severe thunderstorms were forecast for sections of Texas, Arkansas, Louisiana and Oklahoma.

when the officer ran out of the alleyway and jumped into a waiting car.

Beddow tried to make the witness admit that he at first told state investigators he could not identify the man who ran out of the alley.

An FBI fingerprint expert, J. Everett Burke testified earlier that prints found on Patterson's car were identical with a set of Fuller's sent to the FBI by state investigators.

Defense attorneys sought to discredit the testimony that the defendant once denied touching the automobile, and the 35-year-old former lawman readily admitted to newsmen that the prints were his.

He said he grabbed the automobile for support while pulling a newspaperman out of the car several hours after the slaying.

Burke also testified that a palm print taken off the Patterson car was not made by Fuller, and is still unidentified.

During Burke's testimony Beddow announced that the defense would "make no denial" that the fingerprint was made by Fuller. He said it will show Fuller "put his hands on that car" after Patterson was killed. Beddow also indicated he would try to show that Fuller had opened the door of the car to let photographers make pictures of the interior.

Contesting state investigator Willie B. Painter's testimony that the accused man had told him he had been "very careful not to touch the car," Beddow tried to bring out that Fuller was taking narcotics at that time because of a serious back injury.

Patterson was slain 17 days after his successful campaign for attorney general of Alabama. He ran on a pledge to rid his home town of the vice for which it had become notorious.

Rayburn said also that the Democratic committee members decided to support an amendment to be offered by Rep. Mills (D-Ark) specifying a $20 credit on income taxes for each taxpayer and each of his dependents. The credit would be effective on income received on and after next Jan. 1, and withholding from pay envelopes would be reduced accordingly.

Congressional experts estimated the plan would remove four million families from the income taxpaying rolls. For example, if a man with a wife and child now pays $60 tax, he would owe no tax under the new proposal.

Most of the area where the plane is feared down is mountainous and covered with timber.

The Air Force and Civil Air Patrol had at least 19 planes in the air from New Mexico, Texas, California and Colorado bases. In addition, "It looks like every private plane in the country is out," said Maj. A. H. Perry of the Albuquerque CAP.

The Weather Bureau said heavy clouds over the mountains should clear away tonight.

City Man Fatally Stricken While At Wheel Of Auto

A 58-year-old Monroe man, who evidently felt a heart attack coming on, stopped his car in the middle of Louisville avenue about 4 p.m. yesterday a few seconds before he died.

He was identified as Charley B. Harvey, an employee at Louisiana Training Institute.

According to Ouachita Parish Coroner, Dr. J. T. French, Harvey was driving in the 900 block of Louisville avenue, when he apparently felt the attack coming on and stopped his car in time to avoid a possible collision, which could have been injurious to others.

An unidentified woman, who was driving behind Harvey, stated that she had started blowing the horn on her car for Harvey to move out of the way, when she noticed that he was slumped in the seat of the vehicle. She summoned passersby who notified police.

Harvey was taken by Mulhearn ambulance to St. Francis Sanitarium, where he was pronounced dead on arrival.

According to Dr. French, members of Harvey's family reported that he had been suffering from a heart ailment for some time.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete late last night, but services will be under the direction of Edmonds Funeral Home of Jonesboro.

Food Shortages Plague Housewives In Moscow

NEW YORK, Feb. 19 (#)—Reports from Moscow say housewives there are being plagued by shortages of important foods.

This looks like an inauspicious beginning for the government of Premier Nikolai Bulganin and Communist party boss Nikita Khrushchev. Troubles with farm and food policies had been one of the officially admitted reasons for the resignation of former Premier Georgi Malenkov earlier this month.

In Washington U.S. government leaders studied a project for a wheat gift to the U.S.S.R. intended possibly to create a dilemma for Kremlin leaders.

Cables from Moscow say it is difficult to find any beef or mutton in food stores—including even the better-supplied retail outlets in the central districts of the capital, such as the well-known large "gastronomes."

In some Soviet stores there was not even any pork on sale this weekend. Pork, the highest priced meat in Russia, is usually the last to disappear from stores.

In the last few days Moscow housewives also have reported difficulty in getting sugar. Sugar shortages in wintertime Moscow are unusual, though they occur often enough during canning time at summer's end.

Usually when meat is short in Moscow stores it can still be obtained at considerable higher prices on the open farm markets from individual farmers. But even there meat is scarce now, Westerners in Moscow report through censorship.

It seems possible the shortages exist outside the capital too, perhaps in more acute form. Moscow stores are the best supplied in Russia and are the last to run short.

The Soviet government showed its concern for the sugar situation earlier this week by purchasing 200,000 tons from Cuba.

It is not clear whether the Moscow meat and sugar shortages were of long-term nature or merely temporary. There have frequently been short-term difficulties in the capital with one kind of food or another, corrected after a few weeks. Often they caused more annoyance than genuine hardship.

The new shortages apparently resulted from a normal seasonal short supply plus decline in meat and sugar supplies because of last summer's drought in the Ukraine and on the Volga. Thus, there was a possibility they would be chronic for several months.

In addition, the whole situation is complicated by the Soviet government's retail trade policy—what might be called "the empty shelf." In its eagerness to declare price reductions each year the Kremlin has consistently priced many foodstuffs—even though by Western standards they are very high—lower than the price the market for them could stand. As a result the available supplies are quickly sold out and many Soviet buyers go away empty-handed.

ST. JOSEPH, Feb. 19 (Special) —A total of 52 fires in Tensas parish during 1954 destroyed 1,340 acres of land, according to the Louisiana Forestry Commission.

Jackson Man Arrested Here On Four Counts

A 26-year-old Jackson, Miss. man was arrested here Saturday and held under $950 bond on four charges, Monroe city police reported.

He is Robert St. Claire, charged with theft of 75 cents from a telephone, vagrancy, drunken driving, and reckless driving.

According to officers, St. Claire was arrested about 4:45 a.m. in a telephone booth at a service station near the Francis Hotel after telephone operators called headquarters and said they believed someone at the booth was using "slugs" for a long distance call.

Officers said they found St. Claire in the booth, rang the telephone office, and had the operator release the "coins" which had just been placed in the box.

Three washers, quarter size, came out of the telephone, the officers said.

The drunken and reckless driving charges were filed, according to officers, when two witnesses told them they had seen St. Claire drive into the service station. The officers said he was intoxicated.

They said they found 36 other quarter - sized washers in St. Claire's pockets.

Jackson Parish First To Meet Drive Quota

JONESBORO, Feb. 19 (Special) —Jackson parish Heart fund officials have been notified that the parish is the first in Louisiana to meet or exceed the quota set in the current fund campaign, Mrs. Virgie T. Harlow, treasurer, announced Saturday. The announcement came in a telegram from Otto Estes, executive director for the Louisiana Heart Association.

The quota of $600 for Jackson parish has already been exceeded by $319.25, with additional funds expected to come in before the final day of the drive, which is Monday, Feb. 28.

Mrs. Harlow joined Everett Lee Mobley, parish director for the Heart drive, in urging all citizens of Jackson parish to continue the work "so well begun and being carried on" so that the parish can "maintain its present position as number one in the state."

The parish, along with all others, will observe Heart Fund Sunday tomorrow and another event is slated for next Saturday. On that date the Veterans of Foreign Wars will sponsor a dance, with all proceeds going to the fund.

Another Banker's Chair Is Vacant

Greeting his friends in his usual jovial manner on Tuesday, even to making plans that concerned the big bank expansion by nearly doubling its size, Travis Oliver went along with his work. Neither he nor his associates had any thought that this day was to prove the final one for its president.

At breakfast table time Wednesday, a TV station here had amazed and shocked hearers with the news that Travis Oliver had been found dead in bed a few minutes before.

This man, despite the fact that he was within a few months of rounding out a full half-century of valuable service to this bank, was as active as he had been through the previous years. Not at any time did he show signs of a letdown so that his death almost paralyzed people of the community who rated him as in the top rounds of men who are almost irreplaceable in the roles they occupy.

The nearest did he come to sounding a sour word was when, several days ago, he jestingly told a fellow associate: "This is to be a wonderful bank when all this expansion is completed, and I hope to live to see it finished."

This bank was his baby. He had been, as stated, in its employ for nearly 50 years. His only thought was to make it a great institution and to equal or surpass other similar banks.

But Travis Oliver did more than handle banking affairs. A few years ago, when the Brown Paper Mill was established and the several large industries built in Sterlington, Mr. Oliver was able to play an important role in their location. Selman Field was established in war time, and in that he had an important part to play.

He was eager to secure industries for the Twin Cities and in getting important conventions to meet here for in that way the Twin Cities were advertised and their future expanded.

Bankers north and south knew him personally. He had held important posts in the American Bankers Association and also served as president of the Louisiana State Bankers.

One of his chief hobbies was aviation. He never found time to circle the globe in this manner but had he lived longer he doubtless would have done so.

With C. E. Woolman, former local resident, he worked first to see cotton dusting carried out on two continents, here and in South America, and the next step was to carry passengers by air as well as to purvey poison for cotton plant dusting.

Delta Air was promoted, and quite largely financed by Monroe men and the first runs were from Jackson, Miss., to Monroe, Shreveport to Dallas. Offices of the company were in Monroe until business got so expanded that it was found necessary to remove and establish a head office in Atlanta, Ga. Today Delta Airlines is the fifth largest air carrier in the country. In all these years Mr. Oliver served as treasurer. The company had never required or needed any other and this connection made Monroe noted wherever aviation was discussed.

There will never be a more public-spirited man than Mr. Oliver. He sought to get industry here on a big scale and he was relentless in his efforts.

Many a young person had been wisely advised as to careers and investments by Mr. Oliver. He was always able to find time to give consideration and his advice was always well balanced. He never gave snap judgment or advice that might be termed to favor great risks in operation.

The writer of this editorial has been privileged to know Travis Oliver personally for more than 30 years. He was a close friend. He was a man among men. There is today a vacant chair in the front office of the Central Bank and Trust Company, and the saddest feature is that when the great expansion of this bank is completed later this year Travis Oliver will not be here to enjoy the thrill that business success imparts.

The National Conventions

The Republican Party has chosen San Francisco as the site for its 1956 National Convention, and many persons throughout the land feel relieved that Chicago's seeming monopoly on the quadrennial gatherings of the two great political parties has been broken. Chicago, emerging with half a loaf, will be host city to the Democratic National Convention.

Selection of San Francisco by the Republicans had President Eisenhower's backing, and [illegible] the choice of this beautiful metropolis by the G.O.P. [illegible] Vice President Nixon [illegible]

[illegible] held Republican gatherings [illegible] Chicago is traditionally Democratic. But from the standpoint of clean politics [illegible] national conventions [illegible]

Although much could happen within the next 18 months to change the political lineup, the present outlook is for two rather tame National Conventions, with the presidential nominees being named by acclamation—President Eisenhower and Adlai Stevenson. Most informed observers now take it for granted that Ike, even though reluctantly, will accept "draft" of a second-term nomination. As for Adlai, there is nobody in sight at present to offer him serious opposition within his own party.

The presumption is that Ike runs again, he will have Nixon as a running mate. The outlook on the Democratic side is for a Southerner to be chosen as running mate to Stevenson.

New Marvels On The Farm Front

"U. S. farming has advanced so rapidly in the last 15 or 20 years that it hardly resembles agriculture as previous generations knew it," observes an article in Life.

Then the article explains what caused this: "During the farm depression of the '20s and the general Depression of the '30s, scientists and inventors were creating marvelous new machinery, new fertilizers, new pesticides and new seeds. At the time very few farmers had the money to buy them. But when war gave farmers an unlimited market, these aids to production were pulled down off the shelf and set to work all at once. With their help and the permission of the weather, U. S. farm output rose [illegible] 38 per cent between 1938 and 1944. It has [illegible] a little, but the capacity to produce, when [illegible] market demands more food, has kept rising."

The same article describes what has happened on [illegible] farm in the Middle West. In 1933 the present owner and his father depended for power largely on six horses. They owned only $635 worth of crop machinery along with some special equipment valued at $286—less than $1,000 all told. Now the owner and his son have 66 pieces of equipment, including tractors, combine, mower, sprayer, milking machinery and so on, which is valued at some $11,000.

Modern farming is a business, operated by skilled technicians and administrators, with a sound working knowledge of scientific conservation and production methods. That is what farm equipment and the other modern aids to farming have brought about.

'I Was Hitting Below The Belt'

Washington, D. C.

[illegible] recall that during the latter months of 1951 and January and February of 1952, the period of the last state political campaigns in Louisiana, I — as a [illegible] and citizen, through the medium of The Franklin Sun and by practically every other legitimate means available—was trying to throw everything but our newspaper press itself in the direction of Earl Long and what I regarded as, and yet do, his personal brand of misgovernment. I have no apologies to offer for that activity, which I remain convinced as a public service — except that, in the process of opposing Earl's principles and methods, I unwittingly misrepresented some facts concerning another man who was involved in the campaigns: U. S. Representative Otto E. Passman, of the Fifth Congressional district.

Belatedly, and particularly since last mid-summer, I have learned that I was hitting below the belt in several of my public exchanges with Congressman Passman.

I have now been in Washington for about a month and a half. My employment here, for which I am genuinely grateful, is in a reasonably responsible position for the House of Representatives. It is proving to be an interesting experience, as well as an excellent opportunity for me to observe, closely and carefully, the legislative branch of our national government in action. It's a patronage appointment, of course — and Congressman Passman's patronage, that.

But it's a job for which he asked nothing of me but a sober, earnest, honest effort in my work, and for which no other promises — or even intimations — were offered. I wouldn't have had it any other way; and I now realize that Mr. Passman wouldn't, either. Prior to becoming as well acquainted with him as I am now, I would have contended differently about his motivation in matters such as this. However, the more I am associated with him, the more I observe of his work, the more I'm convinced that Representative Passman is pretty much of a man — and a superior Congressman.

Day by day contact with Mr. Passman, observation of him among his colleagues, careful attention to proceedings on the floor of the House, interested attendance at various committee hearings, knowledge of some of the work that goes on in his office . . . are among the factors which prompt my declaration that he is a sincere, interested, well informed, able, influential individual and public official. He is obviously guided by, and acts in accordance with, his considered and honest convictions for his concepts of the best interests of the Fifth district, the state and nation. And, positively, there isn't a single member of the Congress who works harder at his job.

Congressman From Oklahoma

Fairbanks, La.

Editor, Morning World:

I saw in the paper where a Congressman from Oklahoma is making $15,000.00 a year, and he is looking for a part time job, and he doesn't have anybody to support but his wife, and doesn't pay any income taxes out of his salary, and is looking for a part time job. Here I am making $3,700.00 a year and have a wife and two boys, ages six and eight years of age. My wife is sick and yet I have to pay $300.00 out of my salary for income taxes. My medicine and doctor bill have already gone higher than I can ever pay in the next two or three years. If I was making $15,000.00 a year and didn't have to pay any income taxes, I might could pay my doctor bills.

I am sending this to the Monroe paper, and if you all will send it to that Congressman that can't live on $15,000.00 a year, maybe it will make him stop and thank the good Lord that he and his family are well and don't have to worry about his wife's health and how he is going to help raise his boys.

Please send this to the Congressman for me, maybe he can tell me what to do about my troubles.

U. S. gamble that India can be held in free nation orbit despite Moscow pressure on Premier Pandit Nehru is paying off in support of Indian industrialists. They opposed government purchase of a Russian steel plant, which Nehru later approved. Nehru's attitude did not stop Atomic Energy Commission from selling India ten tons of heavy water, which is double hydrogenized water required in industrial development of atomic energy.

Prediction is that U. S. will continue to make more progress among the people of India than Russia, and that Nehru's concessions to the Communists will shift more Indian business men to our side.

Save Your Confederate Money, Boys — Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas recuperating from his gall stone operation, finds that he has supplanted Georgia's Senator Richard Russell as the south's hope for the presidency. But so long as President Eisenhower is a stand out for reelection, Senator Johnson will thank his admirers politely for their good wishes and remain aloof from discussions of a Democratic nominee. Prediction is that if Eisenhower should make a surprise withdrawal next spring, as did Truman at the same stage of the 1952 campaign, the Democratic nominee may well be from south of the Mason Dixon line.

Remember the Good Old Days—Not only will there be no federal tax reduction of any sort in 1955, but reports from states where legislatures are now in session show that many will increase taxes. There could even be a tax raise if trouble should come over Formosa. As a nostalgic flash back to happier tax times before the depression, World War II and preparation against another federal tax have increased 1581 per cent since 1829, or 16 times as much as that year. Local taxes have increased 65 per cent or 1.6 times and state taxes 511 per cent or six times as much as in those days.

Can recanting Communists Be Trusted? — Department of Justice lawyers say privately they have been uneasy for a long time about willingness of Attorney General Herbert Brownell to use former Communists as witnesses in trials and quasi - judicial proceedings. Now the admission of confessed former Reds and Harvey Matusow and Mrs. Marie Natvig, the latter a witness for the Federal Communications Commission, that they testified falsely under oath, has cast doubt upon the testimony of all recanting Communists.

Prediction is that Senator John L. McClellan (Dem.-Ark.) chairman of the Government Operations committee will call Justice officials to ask them to justify use of such witnesses and that the only Communist witnesses used by the government henceforth will be those certified by the FBI as having worked within Red ranks as undercover agents.

Burr Under Ike Saddle — Biggest White House annoyance outside of Congress is Thomas E. Murray, a distinguished engineer and member of the Atomic Energy Commission, whose blunt opposition to some of the proposals of Chairman Lewis L. Strauss have annoyed the president. Murray, a conservative Democrat and father of 11 children, has criticized Strauss on the Dixon-Yates contract, has said Admiral Strauss is not running the commission in the best interests of the country. A very wealthy man, who has been granted 200 patents in the electronic and welding field, Murray says he will not resign, will stay on till the end of his term two years hence.

Prediction is that Murray's testimony before congressional committee will do more to retard Dixon-Yates contract than that of any other individual.

Washington Poison to Premier—Now the Italian government is shaky. Premier Mario Scelba, who is anti-Communist has a desperate battle against the Red and anti - American blocs in elections May 27. Ambassador Clare Boothe Luce had planned to accompany Scelba to Washington next month, but his friends have pointed out that the premiers of Japan and France were both tossed out of office after official visits to Washington. Prediction is that the trip to U. S. will be called off.

Democrats Challenge 1956 Defense Budget

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (CQ)—Will a Democratic Congress force President Eisenhower to spend more for national defense than he believes is necessary?

The answer may be several months in coming, since House and Senate Appropriations and Armed Services committees have just started studying the president's proposed $34 billion defense budget for fiscal 1956.

Meanwhile, almost daily some potent Democrat expresses alarm over the president's decision to cut back military manpower, particularly in the army. Current Army strength of 1,300,000 - plus is scheduled to drop to 1,100,000 by June 30 and to 1,025,000 by June 30, 1956. Smaller cuts are to be made in the Navy and Marine Corps, while Air Force manpower would be increased slightly for a total uniformed force of 2,850,000 a year from June.

Common theme of Democratic critics is that the cutbacks cannot be justified by any lessening of international tension. On the contrary, they say the Formosa problem, the 12 per cent increase recently announced in Soviet military spending, and the latest shuffle in the Kremlin all argue for maintaining or increasing present force levels.

Chairman Richard B. Russell (D Ga.) of the Senate Armed Services committee wants "very close re-evaluation of planned reductions in military manpower . . . This is not a time for us to indulge in wishful thinking." House Democratic Leader John W. McCormack (Mass.) says that in view of recent developments "I cannot understand how any leadership would not immediately reconsider the proposed reduction of the Army and Navy." Says Missouri's outspoken Sen. Stuart Symington: "Under the circumstances it is absolutely incredible . . ."

Despite their misgivings, most Congressmen would agree with a statement by ex-Sen. Homer Ferguson, who had the job of defending the administration's defense budgets in 1953 and in 1954. Said he, in the 1953 debate: "No one can be absolutely sure whether the amount we are recommending in this bill is too high, too low, or just right. If we knew we would be involved in a major war in the near future, then the amount . . . would be clearly inadequate. On the other hand, if we knew there definitely would be no future war . . .. then the amount we are recommending could be cut."

What Ferguson did know, however, was that the president possessed the prestige of an acknowledged military expert. During the 1954 debate, he said: "I am basing my judgment on that of the president of the United States who was and is a military man, the highest general we have had . . ."

President Eisenhower, in his Jan. 17 budget message to Congress, took pains to point out that "in my judgment the military forces and programs upon which this budget is based are accurately adjusted to the national needs." One powerful Democrat, Chairman Carl Vinson of the House Armed Services committee has said he agrees with the president.

But other Democrats, although respectful of the president's prestige, are prepared to challenge him. Says McCormack: "It could be a terrible thing for our country if the president is wrong."

Many Democrats claim that the president has allowed his military judgment to be swayed by the advice of Secretary of the Treasury George Humphrey, who wants a balanced budget. This is not a peculiarly Republican problem, according to one Senator, who told CQ: "If Harry Truman had paid as much attention to John Snyder's advice as he does to Humphrey's, the Air Force would have been cut to six wings."

Now that Democrats control Congress, there is a chance that the House Appropriations committee will report a defense bill calling for a larger Army. But analysis of two votes in the 83rd Congress shows that Democrats will have to pick up votes [illegible] if they are to override the president's wishes.

In 1953, when President Eisenhower cut Truman's earlier request for the Air Force by $5 billion, Democrats moved to restore $400 million in the Senate and lost 38-55. In 1954 when the president cut back the Army, Democrats tried to restore $350 million, to cover the cost of two divisions, but lost 38-50.

The National Conventions

The Republican Party has chosen San Francisco as the site for its 1956 National Convention, and many persons throughout the land feel relieved that Chicago's seeming monopoly on the quadrennial gatherings of the two great political parties has been broken. Chicago, emerging with half a loaf, will be host city to the Democratic National Convention.

Selection of San Francisco by the Republicans had President Eisenhower's backing, and in a way the choice of the beautiful metropolis by the Golden Gate for the Republican conclave is a tribute to Vice President Nixon and Senate Minority Leader Knowland, both from California.

From a strictly party standpoint, Chicago never was a logical place to hold Republican gatherings, since Cook County, embracing Chicago, is traditionally Democratic. But from the standpoint of clean politics, it is bad practice for any one city to monopolize national conventions.

Although much could happen within the next 18 months to change the political lineup, the present outlook is for two rather tame National Conventions, with the presidential nominees being named by acclamation—President Eisenhower and Adlai Stevenson. Most informed observors now take it for granted that Ike, even though reluctantly, will accept "draft" of a second-term nomination. New Marvels On The Farm Front

"U. S. farming has advanced so rapidly in the last 15 or 20 years that it hardly resembles agriculture as previous generations knew it," observes an article in Life.

Then the article explains what caused this: "During the farm depression of the '20s and the general Depression of the '30s, scientists and inventors were creating marvelous new machinery, new fertilizers, new pesticides and new seeds. At the time very few farmers had the money to buy them. But when war gave farmers an unlimited market, these aids to production were pulled down off the shelf and set to work all at once. With their help and the permission of the weather, U. S. farm output rose by a fantastic 33 per cent between 1938 and 1944. It has now gone down a little, but the capacity to produce, when and if the market demands more food, has kept rising."

That same article describes what has happened on an actual, existing farm in the Middle West. In 1933 the present owner and his father depended for power largely on six horses. They owned only $635 worth of crop machinery, along with some special equipment valued at $286—less than $1,000 all told. Now the owner and his son have 66 pieces of equipment, including tractors, combine, mower, sprayer, milking machinery and so on, which is valued at some $11,000.

Modern farming is a business, operated by skilled technicians and administrators, with a sound working knowledge of scientific conservation and production methods. That is what farm equipment and the other modern aids to farming have brought about.

'Yankees' On The Prowl

Ruston, La.

Editor, Morning World:

Senator Humphrey, a modern Thaddeus Stevens, and Senator Lehman — he follows the Marxist line — are drawing up some Civil Right's Bills, all of which are aimed at the south. The Democrats are now trying to outbid the Republicans for the minority vote next year.

These two peregrine representatives are calling for an anti-poll-tax law, the rights of which belong to the states, and they also want an anti-lynch law. There has been no lynching in the U. S. in the last two years but the Communists are behind this anti-lynch bill. They want to be sure that nothing happens to their agitators and carpet-baggers while they are invading the south with their race hating.

Our disingenuous politicians in Washington, D. C. (District of Colored) have always overlooked the fact that it was the north, the State of Illinois, which stigmatized this nation with lynching. One man, Al Capone — with the aid of his henchmen — lynched more than 500 men right there in Chicago. He lynched 367 in one year; the Chicago police force was on his payroll; the police were paid off with both blood money and hush money; the mayor simply closed his eyes and remained aloof; the state of Illinois did nothing about it, never executed a living soul for any of these lynchings; instead, the state paroled 8,000 convicts at this time; evidently in an effort to make it a killing convention.

Well, the "hawkshaws" eventually got this gangster but they didn't get him for any of these lynchings; they got him for not dividing that blood-money with Uncle Sam.

'I Was Hitting Below The Belt'

Washington, D. C.

Editor, Morning World:

This is my first "Letter to the Editor." I hope you shall publish it.

You'll doubtless recall that during the latter months of 1951 and January and February of 1952, the period of the last state political campaigns in Louisiana, I — as a newspaperman and citizen, through the medium of The Franklin Sun and by practically every other legitimate means available—was trying to throw everything but our newspaper press itself in the direction of Earl Long and what I regarded as, and yet do, his personal brand of misgovernment. I have no apologies to offer for that activity, which I remain convinced as a public service — except that, in the process of opposing Earl's principles and methods, I unwittingly misrepresented some facts concerning another man who was involved in the campaigns: U. S. Representative Otto E. Passman, of the Fifth Congressional district.

Belatedly, and particularly since last mid-summer, I have learned that I was hitting below the belt in several of my public exchanges with Congressman Passman.

I have now been in Washington for about a month and a half. My employment here, for which I am genuinely grateful, is in a reasonably responsible position for the House of Representatives. It is proving to be an interesting experience, as well as an excellent opportunity for me to observe, closely and carefully, the legislative branch of our national government in action. It's a patronage appointment, of course — and Congressman Passman's patronage, that.

But it's a job for which he asked nothing of me but a sober, earnest, honest effort in my work, and for which no other promises — or even intimations — were offered. I wouldn't have had it any other way; and I now realize that Mr. Passman wouldn't, either. Prior to becoming as well acquainted with him as I am now, I would have contended differently about his motivation in matters such as this. However, the more I am associated with him, the more I observe of his work, the more I'm convinced that Representative Passman is pretty much of a man — and a superior Congressman.

Day by day contact with Mr. Passman, observation of him among his colleagues, careful attention to proceedings on the floor of the House, interested attendance at various committee hearings, knowledge of some of the work that goes on in his office . . . are among the factors which prompt my declaration that he is a sincere, interested, well informed, able, influential individual and public official. He is obviously guided by, and acts in accordance with, his considered and honest convictions — for his concepts of the best interests of the Fifth district, the state and nation. And, positively, there is not a single member of the Congress who works harder at his job.

The Communists aren't doing so well in their own Russia. Malenkov resigns and takes all blame for his country's serious agricultural and industrial troubles. Yet, the Russians are trying to foist their lousy system on the rest of the world!

Communism will never be successful because it is based on evil—and evil is not as powerful as good.

Congressman From Oklahoma

Fairbanks, La.

Editor, Morning World:

I saw in the paper where a Congressman from Oklahoma is making $15,000.00 a year, and he is looking for a part time job, and he doesn't have anybody to support but his wife, and doesn't pay any income taxes out of his salary, and is looking for a part time job. Here I am making $3,700.00 a year and have a wife and two boys, ages six and eight years of age. My wife is sick and yet I have to pay $300.00 out of my salary for income taxes. My medicine and doctor bill have already gone higher than I can ever pay in the next two or three years. If I was making $15,000.00 a year and didn't have to pay any income taxes. I might could pay my doctor bills.

I am sending this to the Monroe paper, and if you all will send it to that Congressman that can't live on $15,000.00 a year, maybe it will make him stop and thank the good Lord that he and his family are well and don't have to worry about his wife's health and how he is going to help raise his boys.

Please send this to the Congressman for me, maybe he can tell me what to do about my troubles.

Old Church

THE modern church may seem to some . . . A wonder to behold . . . But I prefer the humble church . . . So simple and so old . . . So simple in its furnishings . . . So old in its design . . . That every time I enter it . . . I feel that it is mine . . . The ancient altar and the pews . . . The pictures stained on glass . . . And all the dusty aisles through which . . . The common people pass . . . These very markings of its age . . . Invite the piety . . . That draws the soul to peace with God . . . In His eternity . . . I know each church is one in which . . . Capital Buzzsaw

U. S. gamble that India can be held in free nation orbit despite Moscow pressure on Premier Pandit Nehru is paying off in support of Indian industrialists. They opposed government purchase of a Russian steel plant, which Nehru later approved. Nehru's attitude did not stop Atomic Energy Commission from selling India ten tons of heavy water, which is double hydrogenized water required in industrial development of atomic energy.

Prediction is that U. S. will continue to make more progress among the people of India than Russia, and that Nehru's concessions to the Communists will shift more Indian business men to our side.

Save Your Confederate Money, Boys — Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas recuperating from his gall stone operation, finds that he has supplanted Georgia's Senator Richard Russell as the south's hope for the presidency. But so long as President Eisenhower is a stand out for reelection, Senator Johnson will thank his admirers politely for their good wishes and remain aloof from discussions of a Democratic nominee. Prediction is that if Eisenhower should make a surprise withdrawal next spring, as did Truman at the same stage of the 1952 campaign, the Democratic nominee may well be from south of the Mason Dixon ilne.

Remember the Good Old Days—Not only will there be no federal tax reduction of any sort in 1955, but reports from states where legislatures are now in session show that many will increase taxes. There could even be a tax raise if trouble should come over Formosa. As a nostalgic flash back to happier tax times before the depression, World War II and preparation against another federal tax have increased 1581 per cent since 1829, or 16 times as much as that year. Local taxes have increased 65 per cent or 1.6 times and state taxes 511 per cent or six times as much as in those days.

Can recanting Communists Be Trusted? — Department of Justice lawyers say privately they have been uneasy for a long time about willingness of Attorney General Herbert Brownell to use former Communists as witnesses in trials and quasi - judicial proceedings. Now the admission of confessed former Reds and Harvey Matusow and Mrs. Marie Natvig, the latter a witness for the Federal Communications Commission, that they testified falsely under oath, has cast doubt upon the testimony of all recanting Communists.

Prediction is that Senator John L. McClellan (Dem.-Ark.) chairman of the Government Operations committee will call Justice officials to ask them to justify use of such witnesses and that the only Communist witnesses used by the government henceforth will be those certified by the FBI as having worked within Red ranks as undercover agents.

Burr Under Ike Saddle — Biggest White House annoyance outside of Congress is Thomas E. Murray, a distinguished engineer and member of the Atomic Energy Commission, whose blunt opposition to some of the proposals of Chairman Lewis L. Strauss have annoyed the president. Murray, a conservative Democrat and father of 11 children, has criticized Strauss on the Dixon-Yates contract, has said Admiral Strauss is not running the commission in the best interests of the country. A very wealthy man, who has been granted 200 patents in the electronic and welding field, Murray says he will not resign, will stay on till the end of his term two years hence.

Prediction is that Murray's testimony before congressional committee will do more to retard Dixon-Yates contract than that of any other individual.

Washington Poison to Premier—Now the Italian government is shaky. Premier Mario Scelba, who is anti-Communist has a desperate battle against the Red and anti - American blocs in elections May 27. Ambassador Clare Boothe Luce had planned to accompany Scelba to Washington next month, but his friends have pointed out that the premiers of Japan and France were both tossed out of office after official visits to Washington. Prediction is that the trip to U. S. will be called off.

Congressional Quarterly

Democrats Challenge 1956 Defense Budget

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (CQ)—Will a Democratic Congress force President Eisenhower to spend more for national defense than he believes is necessary?

The answer may be several months in coming, since House and Senate Appropriations and Armed Services committees have just started studying the president's proposed $34 billion defense budget for fiscal 1956.

Meanwhile, almost daily some potent Democrat expresses alarm over the president's decision to cut back military manpower, particularly in the army. Current Army strength of 1,300,000 - plus is scheduled to drop to 1,100,000 by June 30 and to 1,025,000 by June 30, 1956. Smaller cuts are to be made in the Navy and Marine Corps, while Air Force manpower would be increased slightly for a total uniformed force of 2,850,000 a year from June.

Common theme of Democratic critics is that the cutbacks cannot be justified by any lessening of international tension. On the contrary, they say the Formosa problem, the 12 per cent increase recently announced in Soviet military spending, and the latest shuffle in the Kremlin all argue for maintaining or increasing present force levels.

Chairman Richard B. Russell (D Ga.) of the Senate Armed Services committee wants "very close re-evaluation of planned reductions in military manpower . . . This is not a time for us to indulge in wishful thinking." House Democratic Leader John W. McCormack (Mass.) says that in view of recent developments I cannot understand how any leadership would not immediately reconsider the proposed reduction of the Army and Navy." Says Missouri's outspoken Sen. Stuart Symington: "Under the circumstances it is absolutely incredible . . ."

Despite their misgivings, most Congressmen would agree with a statement by ex-Sen. Homer Ferguson, who had the job of defending the administration's defense budgets in 1953 and in 1954. Said he, in the 1953 debate: "No one can be absolutely sure whether the amount we are recommending in this bill is too high, too low, or just right. If we knew we would be involved in a major war in the near future, then the amount . . . would be clearly inadequate. On the other hand, if we knew there definitely would be no future war . . ., then the amount we are recommending could be cut."

What Ferguson did know, however, was that the president possessed the prestige of an acknowledged military expert. During the 1954 debate, he said: "I am basing my judgment on that of the president of the United States who was and is a military man, the highest general we have had . . ."

President Eisenhower, in his Jan. 17 budget message to Congress, took pains to point out that "in my judgment, the military forces and programs upon which this budget is based are accurately adjusted to the national needs." One powerful Democrat, Chairman Carl Vinson of the House Armed Services committee, has said he agrees with the president.

But other Democrats, although respectful of the president's prestige, are prepared to challenge him. Says McCormack: "It could be a terrible thing for our country if the president is wrong."

Many Democrats claim that the president has allowed his military judgment to be swayed by the advice of Secretary of the Treasury George Humphrey, who wants a balanced budget. This is not a peculiarly Republican problem, according to one Senator, who told CQ: "If Harry Truman had paid as much attention to John Snyder's advice as Ike does to Humphrey's, the Air Force would have been cut to six wings."

Now that Democrats control Congress, there is a chance that the House Appropriations committee will report a defense bill calling for a larger Army. But analysis of two votes in the 83rd Congress shows that Democrats will have to close ranks completely if they are to override the president's wishes.

In 1953, when President Eisenhower cut Truman's earlier request for the Air Force by $5 billion, Democrats moved to restore $400 million in the Senate and lost 38-55. In 1954, when the president cut back the Army, Democrats tried to restore $350 million, to cover the cost of two divisions, but lost 38-50.

Two Men Admit Other Robberies

Two men, being held in the Ouachita parish jail for armed robbery of the McGuire Service Station just outside of West Monroe, have admitted to another armed robbery in south Louisiana and to three robberies in Dallas, Tex., Sheriff Bailey Grant said Saturday.

Detailers have been placed on the two men by officers in both localities.

Sheriff Grant said Herman Harris Mangum and Kennith Ward McKinney, both 23-year-old Dallas men, have admitted taking $49 from an Amite, La., service station on Feb. 16, the day after the local station was robbed. As the two were making their get away, the station operator fired once at the men, but did not hit either. Following the admission by Mangum and McKinney, the local sheriff department notified Tangipahoa parish authorities, who immediately placed a detainer on the men.

In the Dallas robberies some of the items taken were found in the possession of the two when apprehended. A 20 gauge shotgun and a large quantity cigarettes were among their possessions. A member of the Dallas sheriff department and a city detective have talked with the two in the local jail and filed a detainer on the men.

Natchez Youth Receives Letter From Churchill

NATCHEZ, Miss., Feb. 19 (Special) — When James Stowers "Judge" Hicks of Natchez is 90 and patriarchial he will entertain his grandchildren with his scrapbook.

Even if the scrapbook is unfilled except for the first page, the little ones will be awed. Because that one page will surely feature "the letter Grandfather got from Sir Winston Churchill," the world famous prime minister of England.

The story begins on November 30, 1954. "Judge's" ninth birthday. It was also Churchill's birthday anniversary and when "Judge" Hicks, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Graham H. Hicks, of Natchez, finished his party of celebration at his regular weekly Cub Scout den meeting that day he went home and turned on the radio. The airwaves were loaded with accounts of Sir Winston's 80th birthday celebration. So, as one with a great deal in common with the great statesman, he penned a note of good wishes to No. 10 Downing Street.

In order to improve good relations between his own country and the prime minister's, no double "Judge" added a little something he's heard his father, a practicing attorney in Natchez says: 'Mr. Churchill," he wrote, "my daddy thinks you are the greatest man alive today."

A reply came back last week to No. 100 Magnolia Place from 10 Downing Street. The brief pen-written note said: "Am so much obliged to you for your very kind token of good will on my birthday" and was signed by the head of No. 10 Downing street himself.

"So far as Judge is concerned," said his mother, "only two people in the world were born on November 30th, and that was reason enough for him to write."

It's highway robbery!

Up to this year, maybe there were reasons for wanting one of the higher priced cars. If you demanded something extra in driving fun . . . something really special in the way a car handled and felt and responded to your wishes . . . you simply had to pay a premium to get it.

Not any more! The Motoramic Chevrolet for 1955 has changed all that. In fact, it's stealing the thunder from the high-priced cars on their own home-grounds—out on the highway.

Talk about excitement! You have 162 high-compression horsepower under the hood with the new "Turbo-Fire V8"! (180 h.p. is optional at extra cost in all V8 models if you want it.) Or you can take your pick of two new "Blue-Flame" 6's—the hottest, highest powered sixes in the low-price field! Any one of these three engines brings you all the good things that come from Chevrolet's long leadership in valve-in-head design.

As for drives, just name it. Chevrolet offers new Overdrive, Super-Smooth Powerglide (extra-cost options), or a new and finer Synchro-Mesh transmission.

You're headed for fun in the Motoramic Chevrolet! You're headed for a ride such as you'd expect only in highest priced cars. You're headed for "heads up" stopping, too, and easier steering. All this, with Chevrolet's traditional economy. Come in and put this "show car" on the road!

Two men, being held in the Ouachita parish jail for armed robbery of the McGuire Service Station just outside of West Monroe, have admitted to another armed robbery in south Louisiana and to three robberies in Dallas, Tex., Sheriff Bailey Grant said Saturday.

Detailers have been placed on the two men by officers in both localities.

Sheriff Grant said Herman Harris Mangum and Kennith Ward McKinney, both 23-year-old Dallas men, have admitted taking $49 from an Amite, La., service station on Feb. 16, the day after the local station was robbed. As the two were making their get away, the station operator fired once at the men, but did not hit either. Following the admission by Mangum and McKinney, the local sheriff department notified Tangipahoa parish authorities, who immediately placed a detainer on the men.

In the Dallas robberies some of the items taken were found in the possession of the two when apprehended. A 20 gauge shotgun and a large quantity cigarettes were among their possessions. A member of the Dallas sheriff department and a city detective have talked with the two in the local jail and filed a detainer on the men.

Natchez Youth Receives Letter From Churchill

NATCHEZ, Miss., Feb. 19 (Special) — When James Stowers "Judge" Hicks of Natchez is 90 and patriarchial he will entertain his grandchildren with his scrapbook.

Even if the scrapbook is unfilled except for the first page, the little ones will be awed. Because that one page will surely feature "the letter Grandfather got from Sir Winston Churchill," the world famous prime minister of England.

The story begins on November 30, 1954. "Judge's" ninth birthday. It was also Churchill's birthday anniversary and when "Judge" Hicks, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Graham H. Hicks, of Natchez, finished his party of celebration at his regular weekly Cub Scout den meeting that day he went home and turned on the radio. The airwaves were loaded with accounts of Sir Winston's 80th birthday celebration. So, as one with a great deal in common with the great statesman, he penned a note of good wishes to No. 10 Downing Street.

In order to improve good relations between his own country and the prime minister's, no double "Judge" added a little something he's heard his father, a practicing attorney in Natchez says: 'Mr. Churchill," he wrote, "my daddy thinks you are the greatest man alive today."

A reply came back last week to No. 100 Magnolia Place from 10 Downing Street. The brief pen-written note said: "Am so much obliged to you for your very kind token of good will on my birthday" and was signed by the head of No. 10 Downing street himself.

"So far as Judge is concerned," said his mother, "only two people in the world were born on November 30th, and that was reason enough for him to write."

It's highway robbery!

Up to this year, maybe there were reasons for wanting one of the higher priced cars. If you demanded something extra in driving fun . . . something really special in the way a car handled and felt and responded to your wishes . . . you simply had to pay a premium to get it.

Not any more! The Motoramic Chevrolet for 1955 has changed all that. In fact, it's stealing the thunder from the high-priced cars on their own home-grounds–out on the highway.

Talk about excitement! You have 162 high-compression horsepower under the hood with the new "Turbo-Fire V8"! (180 h.p. is optional at extra cost in all V8 models if you want it.) Or you can take your pick of two new "Blue-Flame" 6's–the hottest, highest powered sixes in the low-price field! Any one of these three engines brings you all the good things that come from Chevrolet's long leadership in valve-in-head design.

As for drives, just name it. Chevrolet offers new Overdrive, Super-Smooth Powerglide (extra-cost options), or a new and finer Synchro-Mesh transmission.

You're headed for fun in the Motoramic Chevrolet! You're headed for a ride such as you'd expect only in highest priced cars. You're headed for "heads up" stopping, too, and easier steering. All this, with Chevrolet's traditional economy. Come in and put this "show car" on the road!

Gasoline In Storage Nears All-Time High

HOUSTON, Feb. 19 (AP)—Gasoline in storage is approaching an all time record level.

The increase is stronger than a year ago when a series of weekly highs were climaxed by a record of 180 million barrels March 28.

Gasoline stocks a week ago totaled 174,203,000 barrels, compared to a year earlier 174,017,000. This represents a gain of 10.7 per cent since Jan. 1. Last year's gain the same period was 10.1 per cent.

A flurry of price cuts developed across the country last year as refiners sought to reduce stocks to practicalworking levels.

Summer demand was not quite as strong as expected. By Aug. 31, storage still totaled 153 million barrels, 6 million ahead of August 1953.

Surplus gasoline also contributed to cutbacks in crude for 1954.

The industry approaches the 1955 heavy consumption season with brighter market demand prospects.

Domestic production reached a record 6,721,250 barrels daily the week of Feb. 4. Refineries also processed more crude than ever before, 7,418,000 barrels a day.

Texas crude purchasers have indicated their requirements will increase in March. They increased their March nominations 55,352 barrels daily over February.

Since Dec. 31, domestic crude production has increased 6.2 per cent. Refineries are processing about 5 per cent more crude.

Light fuel oil production gets heavy attention from refineries. The output the week ending Feb. 11 was a record 12,561,000 barrels.

Increased emphasis on gasoline can be expected, however, as the April-September heavy consumption season approaches.

Preliminary American Petroleum Institute estimates of 1954 petroleum demand show a disappointing increase of 1½ to 2 per cent above 1953. Most forecasts had called for gains ranging from 3 to 5 per cent.

The Bureau of Mines recently forecast a 1955 gain of 3.1 per cent after taking into consideration an anticipated 16.4 per cent decline in exports.

Safety Meeting To Be Held Here

The Southern Gulf Paper Safety Association will hold its 12th annual conference in Monroe April 4 through April 6, Sam Blackwell, safety director at Brown Paper Mill here, said yesterday.

Some 150 safety representatives from 57 paper mills scattered throughout the south are expected at the meeting, he said.

Hosts for the conference will be Brown Paper Mill, the Crossett Mills at Crossett, Ark., and the Southern Advance Bag and Paper Mill at Hodge, Blackwell said.

In conjunction with the meeting, members of the national safety council committee on mills will meet here April 2 and will remain over for the paper safety association meeting.

Latin Countries Heavy On Sugar, Solon Declares

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19 — Cuba, Puerto Rico and other off-shore producing areas are getting too big a share of the American sugar market, Rep. A. L. Miller (R-Neb) said today.

American producers, he insisted, should get a large share of the increased American requirements for sugar in recent years.

Miller said he has written the State Department that when the sugar act is amended American producers should have their fair share of the increase.

"Under no circumstances, as in the past, should this entire increase go to Cuba, Puerto Rico or other off-shore producing areas," he said.

The Sugar Act of 1948 specified certain quotas for domestic producers, with the remainder of the American market going to off-shore producers and Cuba getting 94 per cent of the residual.

Under this act, American beet sugar producers can market no more than 1,800,000 tons and cane producers no more than 500,000 tons of sugar a year.

At the time these quotas were fixed, Miller said, American requirements for sugar totaled 7,200,000 tons. Now the American requirements have increased to near 8½ million tons and, Miller complains, the off-shore producers have obtained the market for all this increased use.

"If we are to continue the same fixed quotas, it will force an acreage cut of 10 to 15 per cent in the 22 beet-producing states. Under the present program, no farmer will be permitted to increase the acreage planting of beets. New farmers will be permitted no acreage at all. Some of these new farmers are veterans on newly-irrigated areas where the raising of beets is essential in the rotation of crops," he said.

Gasoline In Storage Nears All-Time High

HOUSTON, Feb. 19 (AP)—Gasoline in storage is approaching an all time record level.

The increase is stronger than a year ago when a series of weekly highs were climaxed by a record of 180 million barrels March 28.

Gasoline stocks a week ago totaled 174,203,000 barrels, compared to a year earlier 174,017,000. This represents a gain of 10.7 per cent since Jan. 1. Last year's gain the same period was 10.1 per cent.

A flurry of price cuts developed across the country last year as refiners sought to reduce stocks to practicalworking levels.

Summer demand was not quite as strong as expected. By Aug. 31, storage still totaled 153 million barrels, 6 million ahead of August 1953.

Surplus gasoline also contributed to cutbacks in crude for 1954.

The industry approaches the 1955 heavy consumption season with brighter market demand prospects.

Domestic production reached a record 6,721,250 barrels daily the week of Feb. 4. Refineries also processed more crude than ever before, 7,418,000 barrels a day.

Texas crude purchasers have indicated their requirements will increase in March. They increased their March nominations 55,352 barrels daily over February.

Since Dec. 31, domestic crude production has increased 6.2 per cent. Refineries are processing about 5 per cent more crude.

Light fuel oil production gets heavy attention from refineries. The output the week ending Feb. 11 was a record 12,561,000 barrels.

Increased emphasis on gasoline can be expected, however, as the April-September heavy consumption season approaches.

Preliminary American Petroleum Institute estimates of 1954 petroleum demand show a disappointing increase of 1½ to 2 per cent above 1953. Most forecasts had called for gains ranging from 3 to 5 per cent.

The Bureau of Mines recently forecast a 1955 gain of 3.1 per cent after taking into consideration an anticipated 16.4 per cent decline in exports.

Safety Meeting To Be Held Here

The Southern Gulf Paper Safety Association will hold its 12th annual conference in Monroe April 4 through April 6, Sam Blackwell, safety director at Brown Paper Mill here, said yesterday.

Some 150 safety representatives from 57 paper mills scattered throughout the south are expected at the meeting, he said.

Hosts for the conference will be Brown Paper Mill, the Crossett Mills at Crossett, Ark., and the Southern Advance Bag and Paper Mill at Hodge, Blackwell said.

In conjunction with the meeting, members of the national safety council committee on mills will meet here April 2 and will remain over for the paper safety association meeting.

Latin Countries Heavy On Sugar, Solon Declares

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19 — Cuba, Puerto Rico and other offshore producing areas are getting too big a share of the American sugar market, Rep. A. L. Miller (R-Neb) said today.

American producers, he insisted, should get a large share of the increased American requirements for sugar in recent years.

Miller said he has written the State Department that when the sugar act is amended American producers should have their fair share of the increase.

"Under no circumstances, as in the past, should this entire increase go to Cuba, Puerto Rico or other off-shore producing areas," he said.

The Sugar Act of 1948 specified certain quotas for domestic producers, with the remainder of the American market going to offshore producers and Cuba getting 94 per cent of the residual.

Under this act, American beet sugar producers can market no more than 1,800,000 tons and cane producers no more than 500,000 tons of sugar a year.

At the time these quotas were fixed, Miller said, American requirements for sugar totaled 7,200,000 tons. Now the American requirements have increased to near 8½ million tons and, Miller complains, the off-shore producers have obtained the market for all this increased use.

"If we are to continue the same fixed quotas, it will force an acreage cut of 10 to 15 per cent in the 22 beet-producing states. Under the present program, no farmer will be permitted to increase the acreage planting of beets. New farmers will be permitted no acreage at all. Some of these new farmers are veterans on newly-irrigated areas where the raising of beets is essential in the rotation of crops," he said.

UNITED CARBON COMPANY DIVIDEND NOTICE

A quarterly dividend of 45 cents per share has been declared on the Common Stock of said Company, payable March 10, 1955 to stockholders of record at three o'clock P. M. on February 25, 1955.

Special Campaign For Heart Fund Is Set For Today

Homes throughout the parish will be visited from 2 to 5 p.m. today in an effort to completely canvass the entire area for Heart Fund Sunday, being observed in Ouachita parish as well as throughout the state, Mrs. George Forman, chairman, said Saturday.

Some 500 volunteer workers will make the visits and collect the Heart Dollars, which will finance for the coming year the research being made on heart troubles, the number one killer in the nation.

Any person wishing to make a donation, but whose residence is not visited is requested to call either the heart fund office, telephone 5-1455, or Rev. R. W. Stevens residence, telephone 3-9781. Northeast Cadet Chorus Planned

Patterned after the famed West Point Cadet chorus, an organization will be formed of Northeast State cadets in the Reserve Officers Training Corps.

Any student in the ROTC is eligible for membership, the military department has announced. No previous voice training is necessary.

This will be the first chorus of its kind to be organized on Northeast State's campus, according to Maj. Derwood Cann, Jr., professor of military science and tactics.

After the organization steps are planned auditions will be held to fill the 30-member chorus.

Preliminary plans are being formulated to have the chorus, after it has been trained sufficiently, to appear at high schools, colleges, on radio programs and television shows throughout the state, Major Cann said.

The Northeast State Music Department has pledged to give full support to the project and hold auditions for the chorus.

All cadets are urged to strongly endorse the organization. Those who wish to join the chorus are asked to get in touch immediately with Cadet Lt. Robert Mitchell for detailed information.

THIRD UNIT COMPLETE—Southside Methodist Church, 1623 South Fourth St., Monroe, is proud that its plant today has a value of $65,000. W. C. Salley was contractor and Rev. Lea Joyner is minister. (News-Star—World photo by John Fogleman.)

District Library News

With the Louisiana Reading Festival entering its fourth week, activities in parish libraries throughout the northeast section of the state seem to be picking up instead of reaching a leveling off period. Reports from all of the libraries bring encouraging notices for all those who wish to further the reading of good books by the general public.

In Ouachita parish the Monroe unit of the Society for Crippled Children and Adults recently presented the parish library a group of books which should be most useful to any person with a handicapped member in his family. These books have been added to the volumes which the library already owned dealing with this subject. They may be borrowed from any branch of the library.

Since the opening of the new St. Francis hospital there has been a renewed interest in the use of the ceiling projectors owned by the public library. Some of them need repairs, Miss Frances Flanders has reported, but the library is sending them back to the factory this week so that the requests for loans can be met.

And in Franklin parish the book business is continuing at a rapid pace with the bookmobile service to rural readers accounting for more than twice the circulation of the branch libraries combined. Bookmobile check - outs, Mrs. Eunice H. Cotton, parish librarian, has reported totals 5.828 during a single month. There are 34 scheduled bookmobile stops, most of them being at patron's homes.

The use of non - fictional materials increased tremendously at the Winnsboro branch library in January, Mrs. Cotton said. The percentage of adult informational books checked out was 27 per cent, where this past month, or February, has increased to 35 per cent.

Richland parish is particularly fortunate in having a group of trustees who have served for a number of years. The oldest member of the group is J. A. Ball of Alto who has been connected with the library since its establishment in 1926. Next in the point of service is Mrs. R. R. Rhymes, Neal McEacharn, Jr., is also a member of long standing, as was Mrs. E. D. Baker, who recently resigned on advice from her doctor. Replacing her is Mrs. E. T. Lee, a retired school librarian of Mangham.

And in neighboring Madison parish the Warsaw Home Demonstration club was the first to accept the librarian's invitation to visit the parish library as a group, Miss Mary Moore Mitchell, librarian, has reported. The members of the club use the Warsaw branch, located in the Andrew school. Members of the HD clubs are among the most frequent users of the library.

With the approach of spring, gardening is the "topic of the month" among East Carroll library patrons, Librarian Elizabeth Cammack reports. Both the Lake Providence branch and on the book mobile which serves the rest of the parish, garden enthusiasts are concentrating on gardening books and magazines.

With camellias the most popular gardening subject, the library has borrowed additional books from the state library in Baton Rouge. Then, recently, Hume's famed "Camellias," an excellent book on varieties and culture was added to the East Carroll library collection.

Just as eager for books on their specialty as camellia lovers, rose growers have shown strong liking for four library titles. These are "Roses of the World in Color"; "Anyone Can Grow Roses"; the "American Rose Annual" published by the American Rose Society; and "Roses for Every Garden."

At the LaSalle parish library, novels with religious or historical overtones seem to rank high in popularity. Some of the current favorites are DuMaurier's "Mary Anne," Barker's "Tomorrow the New Moon," Zehnpfenning's "The Rock and the Sand," Seward's "Sail the Dark Tide," Slaughter's "Song of Ruth," Widdemer's "The Golden Wildcat," and Speas' "Bride of the MacHugh."

A renewal tax of three mills will be submitted to the qualified voters of Winn parish Saturday, March 12, Mrs. Rubie M. Hanks, parish librarian, has announced. For use in the maintenance of the library and with certain deductions for the sheriff's commission and the assessor's salary, this will yield around $24,000 per year from the parish assessment of $9,603,000.

Haynesville Girls Take District Crown

Paul Martin Looks 'Em Over

The Cotton States League should present one of its better baseball schedules this season, according to the slate of 60 games per club adopted by the circuit's directors at El Dorado last Sunday and being released today.

Long home stands out and extended series with the same club are passe for Judge Emmett Harty's Class C loop for '55 at least.

Being particularly interested in the schedule for the Twin Cities Sports, who play their games at Legion Memorial Stadium here, we'll dwell here only with the schedule as it pertains to Manager Ed Head's boys.

Longest home stands for the Sports will be four games with two different clubs. The Sports appear in seven four-game home stands and the same number on the road. They'll have 16 two-game stands at Legion park.

For the first whirl through the loop, the clubs will be at home and on the road for alternating two-game sets until every team has faced the other at home and away. Then the four-game stands will begin to trickle into the schedule. The brief stands until all have met will afford the fans an earlier opportunity to get acquainted with rival machinery and at the same time allow club managements to reach earlier conclusions as to where they need to strengthen.

The Sports open the season at home with El Dorado on April 26-27. They go to El Dorado April 28-29 for "second openers," and immediately return here to face Pine Bluff April 30 and May 1. The next pair is at Vicksburg, and the Head men will be back for May 4-5 dates with Hot Springs here. Two more quick ones at El Dorado, and the Sports will jump to the home park once more for Greenville on May 8-9. Then they show twice at Pine Bluff and return for Vicksburg here May 12-13, at which time Twin Cities followers will have seen them all and be ready to start figuring the race. The Sports end the schedule at El Dorado, August 25.

Manager Ed Head now is busy collecting autographs—the kind that come on baseball contracts. He mailed out club terms to prospective Yankee farm hands several days ago, and reports he's expecting results within a few days.

Meanwhile, the club is busy handling the late rush for season tickets on advanced sale since the announcement a week ago that no more tickets will be offered for advanced sale after March 15. Holders of tickets bought in advance will be able to see all the home games for what it would cost to see less than half.

Tri-Parish Tourney Dates Are Announced

FERRIDAY, La., Feb. 19 (Special)— The Tri - Parish Basketball Tournament will be held March 3, 4, and 5 and the principals and coaches of the league will meet Wednesday afternoon at the Ferriday High School to prepare the brackets and complete other plans for conducting the cage tournament.

The schools participating are St. Joseph, Newellton, Waterproof, Enterprise, Harrisonburg, Sicily Island, Jonesville, Wisner, Monterey, Vidalia and Ferriday.

Bobby Locke Claims Transvaal 10th Time

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa, Feb. 19 —Bobby Locke, South African professional, came from behind to win the Transvall Open for the tenth time today with a 72-hole score of 285.

Trounce Bastrop In Finals, 33-21; Ouachita Is 3rd

The Haynesville High School girls basketball team last night won the north Louisiana district triple-A championship by defeating Bastrop High's sextet, 33-21, in the finals of the four-team tournament here in the Ouachita Parish High School gymnasium. Ouachita's defending district champions settled for third place, beating West Monroe High in the consolation contest, 34-28.

Haynesville and Bastrop, as the top two clubs in the district, qualify for the state championship tournament.

The tournament opened with West Monroe, twice conqueror of Bastrop during regular season play, falling to the Morehouse parish girls in their preliminary, 35-28, and Haynesville defeated Ouachita, 27-22, in the other prelim.

Fairie Powell, a slender little forward, sparked Haynesville's triumph with 17 points against Ouachita and 22 more in the final with Bastrop. Audrey Cockrell, who hooped 23 points for Bastrop in the defeat of West Monroe, was limited to 12, seven of them free throws, by Haynesville.

Girls Nip Locals, 72-71, In Hilarious 'Contest'

By TED HECKATHORN

The Hazel Walker Arkansas Travelers, in an unorthodox but hilarious basketrall game, nipped the West Monroe Ramblers, 72-71, in a girls vs. men tussle last night at the West Monroe High gymnasium.

West Monroe High School cage coach Gene Hardin kept the locals ahead most of the way with his long shots, and it took long range accuracy to get any points against the girls, for they did everything imaginable under the hoops to prevent close shots.

It was all in the spirit of fun, however, and some of the girls' holding and bumping antics even had austere Robert Bennett grinning from his pivot position for the Ramblers.

The chief targets for the Amazon's tricks were rotund West Monroe coaches, Dan McClure and Bobby Wilson. It was Wilson who brought down the house late in the first half when he was speeding down the court, lost his balance, and slid at least twenty-five feet on his well-padded front on the polished floor. Wilson, who is high school baseball coach, will no doubt hesitate to recommend "belly slides" to his boys this season.

Between halves, Hardin vied with Miss Walker in a free throw shooting contest, and lost only in an extra session. McClure was the next competitor for Hazel, in a similar contest from a kneeling position, and if Dan had had a ten-toss handicap, he would have won, 11-10. Grid mentor Howard Barker was the next victim of Miss Walker, this time from a sitting spot. Miss Walker missed one, Barker made one.

The Ramblers led 21-14 at the end of the first period; 33-31, at intermission; and 51-50 at the end of the third. With the girls ahead 70-69, and 35 seconds to go McClure almost became the hero of the game when he sank a crip shot to put his team ahead, 71-70; but a long ranger in the dying seconds gave the girls the win.

The West Monroe High undergrads defeated Key Club, 49-40, in the preliminary. Gary Huckabay was high scorer for the winners, with 18 points; and Robert Harris led the losers, with 12.

Haynesville Girls Take District Crown

Paul Martin Looks 'Em Over

The Cotton States League should present one of its better baseball schedules this season, according to the slate of 60 games per club adopted by the circuit's directors at El Dorado last Sunday and being released today.

Long home stands out and extended series with the same club are passe for Judge Emmett Harty's Class C loop for '55 at least.

Being particularly interested in the schedule for the Twin Cities Sports, who play their games at Legion Memorial Stadium here, we'll dwell here only with the schedule as it pertains to Manager Ed Head's boys.

Longest home stands for the Sports will be four games with two different clubs. The Sports appear in seven four-game home stands and the same number on the road. They'll have 16 two-game stands at Legion park.

For the first whirl through the loop, the clubs will be at home and on the road for alternating two-game sets until every team has faced the other at home and away. Then the four-game stands will begin to trickle into the schedule. The brief stands until all have met will afford the fans an earlier opportunity to get acquainted with rival machinery and at the same time allow club managements to reach earlier conclusions as to where they need to strengthen.

The Sports open the season at home with El Dorado on April 26-27. They go to El Dorado April 28-29 for "second openers," and immediately return here to face Pine Bluff April 30 and May 1. The next pair is at Vicksburg, and the Head men will be back for May 4-5 dates with Hot Springs here. Two more quick ones at El Dorado, and the Sports will jump to the home park once more for Greenville on May 8-9. Then they show twice at Pine Bluff and return for Vicksburg here May 12-13, at which time Twin Cities followers will have seen them all and be ready to start figuring the race. The Sports end the schedule at El Dorado, August 25.

Manager Ed Head now is busy collecting autographs—the kind that come on baseball contracts. He mailed out club terms to prospective Yankee farm hands several days ago, and reports he's expecting results within a few days.

Meanwhile, the club is busy handling the late rush for season tickets on advanced sale since the announcement a week ago that no more tickets will be offered for advanced sale after March 15. Holders of tickets bought in advance will be able to see all the home games for what it would cost to see less than half.

Trounce Bastrop In Finals, 33-21; Ouachita Is 3rd

The Haynesville High School girls basketball team last night won the north Louisiana district triple-A championship by defeating Bastrop High's sextet, 33-21, in the finals of the four-team tournament here in the Ouachita Parish High School gymnasium. Ouachita's defending district champions settled for third place, beating West Monroe High in the consolation contest, 34-28.

Haynesville and Bastrop, as the top two clubs in the district, qualify for the state championship tournament.

The tournament opened with West Monroe, twice conqueror of Bastrop during regular season play, falling to the Morehouse parish girls in their preliminary, 35-28, and Haynesville defeated Ouachita, 27-22, in the other prelim.

Fairie Powell, a slender little forward, sparked Haynesville's triumph with 17 points against Ouachita and 22 more in the final with Bastrop. Audrey Cockrell, who hooped 23 points for Bastrop in the defeat of West Monroe, was limited to 12, seven of them free throws, by Haynesville.

Girls Nip Locals, 72-71, In Hilarious 'Contest'

By TED HECKATHORN

The Hazel Walker Arkansas Travelers, in an unorthodox but hilarious basketball game, nipped the West Monroe Ramblers, 72-71, in a girls vs. men tussle last night at the West Monroe High gymnasium.

West Monroe High School cage coach Gene Hardin kept the locals ahead most of the way with his long shots, and it took long range accuracy to get any points against the girls, for they did everything imaginable under the hoops to prevent close shots.

It was all in the spirit of fun, however, and some of the girls' holding and bumping antics even had austere Robert Bennett grinning from his pivot position for the Ramblers.

The chief targets for the Amazon's tricks were rotund West Monroe coaches, Dan McClure and Bobby Wilson. It was Wilson who brought down the house late in the first half when he was speeding down the court, lost his balance, and slid at least twenty-five feet on his well-padded front on the polished floor. Wilson, who is high school baseball coach, will no doubt hesitate to recommend "belly slides" to his boys this season.

Between halves, Hardin vied with Miss Walker in a free throw shooting contest, and lost only in an extra session. McClure was the next competitor for Hazel in a similar contest from a kneeling position, and if Dan had had a ten-toss handicap, he would have won, 11-10. Grid mentor Howard Barker was the next victim of Miss Walker, this time from a sitting spot. Miss Walker missed one. Barker made one.

The Ramblers led 21-14 at the end of the first period; 33-31, at intermission; and 51-50 at the end of the third. With the girls ahead 70-69, and 35 seconds to go McClure almost became the hero of the game when he sank a crip shot to put his team ahead, 71-70; but a long ranger in the dying seconds gave the girls the win.

The West Monroe High undergrads defeated Key Club, 49-40, in the preliminary. Gary Huckabay was high scorer for the winners, with 18 points; and Robert Harris led the losers, with 12.

Ten-Game Grid Schedule Announced For Northeast

Stephen F. Austin Only Replacement On Redskin Slate

With one exception, the Northeast Louisiana State Indians will be facing the same football schedule this year that they met last season, according to the 1955 slate announced yesterday at Athletic Director Arnold Kilpatrick of Northeast.

The single change puts Stephen F. Austin College of Nacodoches, Tex., in the second date on the schedule, replacing Texas A. and I. which met the Indians last year for their only meeting.

Not since the "original" Indians traveled to Nacodoches in 1932 as a junior college to take a 13-0 defeat at the hands of Stephen F. Austin has a Redskin eleven met the Texans. The 1932 game was the only meeting between the two institutions.

The schedule opens with Southeastern Louisiana here on September 17 and closes with Louisiana Tech at Ruston on November 18. Both are Gulf States Conference foes along with S. L. I., McNeese, Northwestern, and Louisiana College who will be met in between.

Non-conference opponents, in addition to Stephen F. Austin, are Delta State, Western Kentucky, and Livingston of Alabama.

Seven of the ten games will be played at home as Coach Devone Payne gets in his second season as head coach of the Tribe.

The schedule:
Sept. 17—Southeastern, here.
Sept. 24—Stephen F. Austin at Nacodoches, Tex
Oct. 1—Delta State, here.
Oct. 8—S. L. I., here.
Oct. 15—Western Kentucky, here.
Oct. 22—McNeese State here (2 p.m., homecoming).
Oct. 29—Livingston, here.
Nov. 5—Northwestern Louisiana at Natchitoches.
Nov. 11—Louisiana College, here.
Nov. 18—Louisiana Tech at Ruston.

Souchak Fires 64, Gains 2-Stroke Bulge On Haas

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

SAN ANTNOIO, Tex., Feb. 19 (AP)—Massive Mike Souchak stood off the building pressure with a glittering 7-under-par 64 for a 54-hole total of 192 today to not only retain his lead in the $12,500 Texas Open Golf Tournament but increase it to two strokes over tall Freddie Haas.

Haas made a gallant bid for the front-running position as he shot a 65, with two eagles in his collection, but he had 194 at the finish.

Misting rain feel during the morning and a norther blew in the afternoon but the weather didn't cool off the hot-shots of the tournament trail. There were six 64's that rattled from the clubs of the crack shots of the professional tour.

Moving into third place was stocky little Bob Rosburg of San Francisco, who had one of the 64's for a total of 196.

Souchak, the big belter from Durham, N. C., is the boy who did a record-tying 60 over the 6,400-yard Brackenridge Park course in the opening day of the tournament. He scrambled to a 68 yesterday and Haas drew within a stroke of him.

Haas, the man from New Orleans by way of Claremont, Calif., was hot with his irons but his putter turned sour at some stages of his round and he also missed one green for one of two bogeys.

Tech's Football Squad Competes In Three States

RUSTON, La., Feb. 19 (Special)—Football teams from Texas, Louisiana and Mississippi will form the opposition for Louisiana Tech during the 1955 grid season.

Joe Aillet, Tech athletic director and head football coach, announced this week that nine games have already been scheduled for the Techmen this fall and there is a possibility of another contest being added to this list.

A newcomer to the Tech slate will be Abilene Christian College, Abilene, Tex. This is the only team on the 1955 schedule the Canines did not meet last season. The two elevens clash in Ruston Oct. 1.

Tech's 1955 schedule is as follows:

Sept. 17—Louisiana College at Pineville.
Sept. 24—Miss. Southern at Ruston.
Oct. 1 —Abilene Christian at Ruston.
Oct. 8—McNeese State at Lake Charles.
Oct. 15—Howard Payne at Brownwood, Tex.
Oct. 22—Northwestern La., at Shreveport.
Oct. 29—Southwestern La. at Ruston (homecoming).
Nov. 5 —Southeastern La. at Hammond.
Nov. 12—To be filled.
Nov. 19. —Northeast State at Ruston.

Spur On Victor By 3 Lengths In Lecompte Event

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 19 — Spur On, stretch-running son of Whirlaway, took a long stride towards the Fair Grounds handicap title today with a three-length victory over Bobby Brocato in the $14,725 Lecompte Handicap.

The seven-year-old stretch Blazer, owned by Marvin Affeld of Chicago, went to the post a favorite with his running mate, Two-Fisted. Spur On went into the lead at the top of the stretch and won with speed in reserve over Joe W. Brown's tiring Bobby Brocato.

Mrs. J. H. Woodcock's Epic King, winner over Spur On in their last meeting, set the early pace and lasted to take the show position.

Spur On returned $7.40, $4 and $3.

Bobby Brocato, running as an entry with Mel Leavitt, paid $4.80, and $3.80. Epic King returned $4.

Jena High Cage Teams Capture District Titles

JENA, La., Feb. 19 (Special)—Jena High School, which won its first district championship in football last fall, continued its winning ways this week by sacking up championships in both boys and girls basketball in district 3-AA.

The boys wrapped up their title Tuesday night with a convincing 81-64 victory over Menard on the Jena court, then put the "icing" on their championship "cake" with a record-breaking 100-41 walloping of Winnfield Wednesday afternoon on the home court.

Thursday night, the Giants, who now have won 32 gamse against only five defeats this season, will journey to Pineville to wind up the district schedule against the Rebels. Little but prestige will be at stake in the game. Jena, with a 7-0 record in the district, will face the cellar-dwelling Rebels who have little to gain, except the honor of stopping the high-flying Jena quintet.

While the attention has focused on the boys, Coach Jerry Piggott's girls also have been having one of their most successful seasons, having dropped only two contests of knowledge. Wednesday afternoon they stopped the Winnfield girls 58-33 to claim the district championship, dropping Winnfield into runner-up honors.

Dargan Brooks, principal at Jena High School, said that a meeting—or meetings—would be arranged as soon as possible to make plans for the bi-district playoffs.

O. G. S. WINS PAIR

Ouachita Grammar School's cagers swept two games from Swartz's eighth graders Friday night. The boys won, 29-19, for their 16th win against one loss, and the O. G. S. girls won their 15th against a lone loss, 23-18.

Girls Bout Plus Tag Bout Mat Mains Tues.

Promoter Gus Kallio continues his "new deal" in wrestling Tuesday night, when no less than three newcomers appear here for the first time on the gala program, which features a girl-grappling event as one half of the double feature; and a regulation tag team match between male mat teams in the nightcap.

Belle Starr, Columbus, Ohio, lovely, who has appeared here once before and made quite a hit with the fans both as to appearance and wrestling ability, tangles with Judy Glover, who hails from Monticello, Fla.

In the men's relay, Lee Fields, who made his first start at the Arena an auspicious one by defeating villainous Buddy Boyette, sides with newcomer Buddy Fuller, Pawhuska, Okla. against a pair of "Reds", Red Roberts, a first-timer here from Little Rock, Ark., and Red Scarr, who made short work of Danny Dusek in the double main last week, by virtue of some vicious leg holds.

Miss Glover is 5'4", weighs 130, and is 22 years of age. An ex-Sunday School teacher, and daughter of a Baptist preacher, Judy has been wrestling professionally for two years, and finds her practice in Judo a great benefit on the mat.

An all-around athlete in her school days, Miss Glover sticks to clean wrestling, and relies solely upon her skill strength, and speed to wage crowd-pleasing matches.

Promoter Kallio, with a four-man tag match as well as the girls' match, is now booking grapplers from Roy Welch, mid-south agent, who belongs to the Wrestling Alliance of the United States, and is able to secure the best as well as the most famous figures in the sport.

A special attraction as referee will be "The Baby Blimp," a professional wrestler who once worked on a Kallie card. The Kentucky Blimp, weighing between 350 and 400 pounds, will referee all matches Tuesday, Kallio said.

Ten-Game Grid Schedule Announced For Northeast

Stephen F. Austin Only Replacement On Redskin Slate

With one exception, the Northeast Louisiana State Indians will be facing the same football schedule this year that they met last season, according to the 1955 slate announced yesterday at Athletic Director Arnold Kilpatrick of Northeast.

The single change puts Stephen F. Austin College of Nacodoches, Tex., in the second date on the schedule, replacing Texas A. and I. which met the Indians last year for their only meeting.

Not since the "original" Indians traveled to Nacodoches in 1932 as a junior college to take a 13-0 defeat at the hands of Stephen F. Austin has a Redskin eleven met the Texans. The 1932 game was the only meeting between the two institutions.

The schedule opens with Southeastern Louisiana here on September 17 and closes with Louisiana Tech at Ruston on November 18. Both are Gulf States Conference foes along with S. L. I., McNeese, Northwestern, and Louisiana College who will be met in between.

Non-conference opponents, in addition to Stephen F. Austin, are Delta State, Western Kentucky, and Livingston of Alabama.

Seven of the ten games will be played at home as Coach Devone Payne gets in his second season as head coach of the Tribe.

The schedule:

Sept. 17—Southeastern, here.
Sept. 24—Stephen F. Austin at Nacodoches, Tex.
Oct. 1—Delta State, here.
Oct. 8—S. L. I., here.
Oct. 15—Western Kentucky, here.
Oct. 22—McNeese State here (2 p.m., homecoming).
Oct. 29—Livingston, here.
Nov. 5—Northwestern Louisiana at Natchitoches.
Nov. 11—Louisiana College, here.
Nov. 18—Louisiana Tech at Ruston.

Souchak Fires 64, Gains 2-Stroke Bulge On Haas

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

SAN ANTNOIO, Tex., Feb. 19 (AP)—Massive Mike Souchak stood off the building pressure with a glittering 7-under-par 64 for a 54-hole total of 192 today to not only retain his lead in the $12,500 Texas Open Golf Tournament but increase it to two strokes over tall Freddie Haas.

Haas made a gallant bid for the front-running position as he shot a 65, with two eagles in his collection, but he had 194 at the finish.

Misting rain feel during the morning and a norther blew in the afternoon but the weather didn't cool off the hot-shots of the tournament trail. There were six 64's that rattled from the clubs of the crack shots of the professional tour.

Moving into third place was stocky little Bob Rosburg of San Francisco, who had one of the 64's for a total of 196.

Souchak, the big belter from Durham, N. C., is the boy who did a record-tying 60 over the 6,400-yard Brackenridge Park course in the opening day of the tournament. He scrambled to a 68 yesterday and Haas drew within a stroke of him.

Haas, the man from New Orleans by way of Claremont, Calif., was hot with his irons but his putter turned sour at some stages of his round and he also missed one green for one of two bogeys.

Tech's Football Squad Competes In Three States

RUSTON, La., Feb. 19 (Special)—Football teams from Texas, Louisiana and Mississippi will form the opposition for Louisiana Tech during the 1955 grid season.

Joe Aillet, Tech athletic director and head football coach, announced this week that nine games have already been scheduled for the Techmen this fall and there is a possibility of another contest being added to this list.

A newcomer to the Tech slate will be Abilene Christian College, Abilene, Tex. This is the only team on the 1955 schedule the Canines did not meet last season. The two elevens clash in Ruston Oct. 1.

Tech's 1955 schedule is as follows:

Sept. 17—Louisiana College at Pineville.
Sept. 24—Miss. Southern at Ruston.
Oct. 1 —Abilene Christian at Ruston.
Oct. 8—McNesse State at Lake Charles.
Oct. 15—Howard Payne at Brownwood, Tex.
Oct. 22—Northwestern La., at Shreveport.
Oct. 29—Southwestern La. at Ruston (homecoming).
Nov. 5 —Southeastern La. at Hammond.
Nov. 12—To be filled.
Nov. 19. —Northeast State at Ruston.

Spur On Victor By 3 Lengths In Lecompte Event

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 19 — Spur On, stretch-running son of Whirlaway, took a long stride towards the Fair Grounds handicap title today with a three-length victory over Bobby Brocato in the $14,725 Lecompte Handicap.

The seven - year - old stretch Blazer, owned by Marvin Affeld of Chicago, went to the post a favorite with his running mate, Two-Fisted. Spur On went into the lead at the top of the stretch and won with speed in reserve over Joe W. Brown's tiring Bobby Brocato.

Mrs. J. H. Woodcock's Epic King, winner over Spur On in their last meeting, set the early pace and lasted to take the show position.

Spur On returned $7.40, $4 and $3.

Bobby Brocato, running as an entry with Mel Leavitt, paid $4.80, and $3.80. Epic King returned $4.

Jena High Cage Teams Capture District Titles

JENA, La., Feb. 19 (Special)—Jena High School, which won its first district championship in football last fall, continued its winning ways this week by sacking up championships in both boys and girls basketball in district 3-AA.

The boys wrapped up their title Tuesday night with a convincing 81-64 victory over Menard on the Jena court, then put the "icing" on their championship "cake" with a record - breaking 100-41 walloping of Winnfield Wednesday afternoon on the home court.

Thursday night, the Giants, who now have won 32 gamse against only five defeats this season, will journey to Pineville to wind up the district schedule against the Rebels. Little but prestige will be at stake in the game. Jena, with a 7-0 record in the district, will face the cellar - dwelling Rebels who have little to gain, except the honor of stopping the high-flying Jena quintet.

While the attention has focused on the boys, Coach Jerry Piggott's girls also have been having one of their most successful seasons, having dropped only two contests of knowledge. Wednesday afternoon they stopped the Winnfield girls 58-33 to claim the district championship, dropping Winnfield into runner-up honors.

Dargan Brooks, principal at Jena High School, said that a meeting—or meetings—would be arranged as soon as possible to make plans for the bi-district playoffs.

O. G. S. WINS PAIR

Ouachita Grammar School's cagers swept two games from Swartz's eighth graders Friday night. The boys won, 29-19, for their 16th win against one loss, and the O. G. S. girls won their 15th against a lone loss, 23-18.

Girls Bout Plus Tag Bout Mat Mains Tues.

Promoter Gus Kallio continues his "new deal" in wrestling Tuesday night, when no less than three newcomers appear here for the first time on the gala program, which features a girl - grappling event as one half of the double feature; and a regulation tag team match between male mat teams in the nightcap.

Belle Starr, Columbus, Ohio, lovely, who has appeared here once before and made quite a hit with the fans both as to appearance and wrestling ability, tangles with Judy Glover, who hails from Monticello, Fla.

In the men's relay, Lee Fields, who made his first start at the Arena an auspicious one by defeating villainous Buddy Boyette, sides with newcomer Buddy Fuller, Pawhuska, Okla. against a pair of "Reds", Red Roberts, a first-timer here from Little Rock, Ark., and Red Scarr, who made short work of Danny Dusek in the double main last week, by virtue of some vicious leg holds.

Miss Glover is 5'4", weighs 130, and is 22 years of age. An ex-Sunday School teacher, and daughter of a Baptist preacher, Judy has been wrestling professionally for two years, and finds her practice in Judo a great benefit on the mat.

An all-around athlete in her school days, Miss Glover sticks to clean wrestling, and relies solely upon her skill strength, and speed to wage crowd-pleasing matches.

Promoter Kallio, with a four-man tag match as well as the girls' match, is now booking grapplers from Roy Welch, mid-south agent, who belongs to the Wrestling Alliance of the United States, and is able to secure the best as well as the most famous figures in the sport.

A special attraction as referee will be "The Baby Blimp," a professional wrestler who once worked on a Kallie card. The Kentucky Blimp, weighing between 350 and 400 pounds, will referee all matches Tuesday, Kallio said.

Truckers Warned About Violations

BATON ROUGE, Feb. 19 (Special) — Truckers operating in Louisiana have been warned by Highway Director George S. Covert that violators of the state's load limits will be quickly apprehended.

Covert emphasized that state law specifically sets forth the load limits allowed, and state police in all sections of the state are constantly on the lookout for violators.

"The law will continue to be strictly enforced and excuses will not be tolerated," Covert said.

The highway director deplored the fact that even though higher penalties were adopted by the 1954 legislature, many violators were apprehended last year by state police on the highways.

During 1954, Covert said, state police caught 10,340 overloaded trucks. Total penalties collected for overloaded and non-licensed trucks were $914,629. Troopers weighed 539,801 trucks during the year.

Although most of Panama's people live in Colon or Panama City, the country has some primitive tribes that live much as they did before the first Spanish settlers landed.

Years Work Reviewed At DAR Meeting

Mrs. E. D. Shaw and Mrs. E. L. Gladney III entertained the Abram Morehouse Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution at the Gladney home on West Madison avenue in Bastrop on Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. A. H. Davenport, chaplain, led the impressive opening ritual. Mrs. Shaw led the pledge of allegiance to the flag and Miss Lucille Huffman read the American's Creed.

Mrs. Ray Green presented Miss Margaret Scoggins, DAR Good Citizen from Bastrop High School. Miss Scoggins told in interesting detail about the Citizenship Pilgrimage she had attended in Baton Rouge during the week end as one of the four representatives of Abram Morehouse Chapter. She expressed thanks to the chapter for the other girls, Miss Patricia Savage of Collinston, Miss Beverly Shelton of Mer Rouge and Miss Elizabeth McCarty of Bonita.

Miss Debbie Pinkston in speaking about National Defense told of the Communist influence exerted by many authors. Mrs. T. E. Barham announced that sufficient ground work has been completed for the organization of a chapter of Children of the American Revolution in Morehouse parish. The organizational meeting is scheduled for April.

Mrs. Gladney displayed articles that the chapter was sending to be sold at the junior membership bazaar at the state meeting in Baton Rouge. Proceeds will go to the DAR approved schools.

A highlight of the afternoon was the review of the years work by Mrs. George T. Madison. Mrs. Conrad McDuffie, regent and her secretary, Mrs. A. B. Conger are able to report all accomplishments required for the gold star honor roll.

Mrs. Edwin Conger and Mrs. Allen Turpin, Sr., were welcomed as new members. Other members present were: Mrs. J. B. Shackelford of Jones, Mrs. E. D. Shaw, Mrs. E. L. Gladney, III, Mrs. Ray Green, Mrs. George T. Madison, Mrs. E. B. Folse, Mrs. Hadley Leavell, Mrs. W. T. Barham, Mrs. W. M. Taylor of Bastrop, Mrs. C. N. McDuffie, Miss Queenie McDuffie, Mrs. T. E. Barham, Mrs. R. E. Barham, Miss Lucille Huffman, Mrs. A. B. Conger, of Oak Ridge, Mrs. Jack Reily, Miss Debbie Pinkston, Mrs. A. H. Davenport, of Mer Rouge.

Guests were Mrs. J. B. Rawlinson, Mrs. W. G. Newcomber, Mrs. O. B. Rowland and Miss Margaret Scoggins of Bastrop.

Thompson of this city who last year was acclaimed "Miss Holiday In Dixie" is shown wearing the gold Elizabethian gown which she wore at the Louisiana Mardi Gras Festival in Washington, D. C. on Friday night. Miss Thompson joined other Louisiana queens in New Orleans where they were entertained at the Roosevelt Hotel earlier in the week. Miss Thompson is a sophomore at Louisiana Tech.

Miss Winona Chauffe Talks To Garden Club On Hollies

The Monroe Garden Club met Monday February 14 at the Agricultural Extension Building in West Monroe. The hostesses were Mrs. B. W. Biedenharn, Chairman, with Mrs. Bunn Beasley, Co-Chairman. Mrs. V. H. Rivers, Club President, presided over the business meeting. The minutes of the January meeting were read by Mrs. Pete Godwin. Mrs. J. T. Hart gave the Treasurer's report. Mrs. W. J. Riley reported that her committee had chosen Mrs. O. M. Grisham and Mrs. Frank Kennedy as honorary members.

Mrs. Delmas Jackson, due to the absence of Mrs. Alymer Montgomery, gave the report of the nominating committee which was accepted. President, Mrs. H. B. Hargrove, President-Elect, Mrs. Scott Hamilton, Vice-President, Mrs. C. E. McKenzie, Recording Secretary Mrs. George W. Guerriero, Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. Merton Abington and Treasurer, Mrs. Mike John Jr.

Mrs. Zollie Meadows, a guest, gave a most informative description of the new Permanent Pink Georgian Marble Home for the National Council of State Garden Clubs, being built in St. Louis. The land was donated by the City of St. Louis and each Federated Garden Club member in the United States is being asked to contribute a small amount. The collection was started at the February meeting and the drive will continue through March. Miss Winona Chauffe, L. S. U. College of Agriculture, Baton Rouge, Louisiana, was a guest speaker and spoke on Hollies, and their place in landscape design.

According to Mrs. Chauffe, Hollies are found on every continent except Australia. In the United States alone there are over five hundred species. The native Louisiana Hollies are found mostly in the southeastern part of Louisiana in the boggy areas. South America rates first in producing Hollies with Brazil leading all South American countries with almost one hundred species.

Weiss-Lowentritt Wedding Solemnized In Minnesota

WINNSBORO—In a wedding marked by simplicity and perfection, with only the immediate family and close friends of the bridal couple present, Miss Ann Ray Lowentritt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Lowentritt of Winnsboro, became the bride of Lt. Ivan R. Weiss, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Weiss of St. Paul, Minnesota, Tuesday at 9 p.m.

The impressive double-ring ceremony was read by Dr. W. Gunther Platt, Rabbi of Mt. Zion Temple, in St. Paul, and was the first marriage in the Chapel of this Temple which was dedicated on December 19th, 1954.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an original bridal gown of white silk net with appliqued embroidered lily-of-the valley motif edging a wide floor length flounce over white taffeta. The high neckline had a yoke of net outlined with seed pearls and appliqued designs. Short cap sleeves were complimented by long net mitts embroidered with tiny self covered buttons. Her finger-tip veil of white silk net was gathered to a coronet of seed pearls and appliqued embroidery. A single strand of pearls was worn.

As a note of sentiment, she carried a white satin Bible which had been given the groom on his confirmation. This, with a white orchid and long satin streamers knotted with lilies-of-the valley, completed her bridal attire.

Miss Jean Lowentritt of Winnsboro, cousin of the bride was the only attendant. As maid-of-honor, she wore a navy taffeta short formal with chaplet if metallic flowers and iridescents. Her corsage was a pink orchid and sweetheart roses.

Mr. Ronald Glassman of St. Paul, Minn. was best man.

The mother of the bride was gowned in an embroidered black satin short formal with necklace of pearls and corsage of purple orchid.

Mrs. Weiss, mother of the groom wore an advanced spring model of printed silk with lavender orchid corsage.

Immediately following the ceremony, a bridal dinner was given by Mr. and Mrs. Louis Lowentritt at Hotel Commodore, St. Paul, honoring the bride and groom and those present.

The table, arranged in a T-shape was covered in pink satin with centerpiece of pink roses, stock and stephanotis, flanked with silver candelabra and pink tapers. A beautiful wedding cake developed in pink and white was cut by the bride and groom.

Mrs. Weiss attended Sophie Newcomb College, New Orleans, two years, also, L. S. U. and University of Minnesota. She is a member of Alpha Epsilon Phi Sorority.

Lt. Weiss is a graduate of University of Minnesota where he received degrees in meteorology and physical geography and an R.O.T.C. Commission in Air Force as 2nd lieutenant. He is a member of Sigma Alpha Mu Fraternity. He is stationed at Moore Air Base, Mission, Tex. and they will make their home in McAllen, Tex. Mrs. Weiss will attend Pan-American College, an extension of Chicago University, at nearby Edinsburgh, Tex.

Out-of-town guest for the wedding besides Mr. and Mrs. Louis Lowentritt and their son, Phil, were Mrs. Leo Lowentritt of Winnsboro, aunt of the bride and Miss Jean Lowentritt.

Mobile Azalea Trail Opens

The Jaycees' Azalea Trail opened February 6, by which time the azaleas are usually well on their way to painting the historic city with lavish tones of pink, red, wine, salmon and lavendar.

Horticultural experts blame this year's delay on the long cold winter, which produced one snowfall: a highly unusual event on the sunny Gulf Coast.

They quickly add, however, that when the azaleas do bloom—probably a couple of weeks from now—they will burst forth in unusual brilliance with both early and late varieties blooming simultaneously.

That will be in plenty of time for the elaborate Azalea Trail coronation, in which Lee Ann Meriwether, Miss America for 1955, will be crowned queen of the Azalea Trail in Ladd Memorial Stadium February 27.

Fortunately for tourists who've already planned an early visit, camellias are in heavy bloom.

Azalea Trail officials predict the heaviest attendance ever during this year's Azalea Trail Festival, which will continue through March 31. An astonishing variety of special events in the fields of art, sport and amusement are planned during that time. Mobile's Mardi Gras celebration — the oldest in the country — began with the first parade Feb. 10.

But, as always, when the azaleas start blooming, they'll be the main attraction.

News From The Public Library

The circulation of books at the branches of the Ouachita Parish Public Library is really on an upward swing this month. We attribute this increase in the use of the library to several factors. First, February is always a good month for library circulation. Second, we have added a number of interesting and attractive new books to the collection since the first of the year and third, the Louisiana Reading Festival and the publicity in connection with its observance has reminded people anew of the resources of the library.

People are always eager to know what is new in the library collection. There are several titles to interest you this week. Mystery readers will be happy to know that there are two new titles, both by masters in the field "Love Can Be Dangerous" by Octavus Roy Cohen and "The Case of the Red Brunette" by Christopher Bush. "Love Can Be Dangerous" is set in entirely different surroundings. Both of these stories will hold and interest their readers.

A novel written especially for young people is "The Foreigner" by Gladys Malvern. This is a novel based on the greatest love story in the Bible, the story of Ruth. It is written in a tender manner and will appeal to older girls. A new western story is "The Mestizo" by Bill Parks. It is a colorful tale of the old southwest, full of action and excitement.

There are three novels which will appeal especially to women among this week's offerings. "The Autumn's Brightness" by Daisy Newman is the love story of a widow of 52 years who found love and romance in New York. In these days it is refreshing to come across a book as bright and mature, yet charming and tender as "The Autumn's Brightness." "The Dowry" by Margaret Culkin Banning deals with a problem that confronts nine and one half million women in America. It is the problem of keeping a marriage relationship in balance at the same time as a career. It is the story of Kay and Stephen Ryland and how their love was affected by the fact that Kay was a successful career woman. It is a stimulating and thoughtful book and one that will appeal to a great many working wives.

"The Measure of The Years" by Alice Ross Colver is a historical novel about a family and a town deep in the New England wilderness. Most of all it is the story of Prue Martin. Women like Prue have made history, though they thought at the time that they were only doing their simple work at home.

In the subject field there are always new books available. One of the most beautiful ones which we have had in a long time is "A Treasury of American Gardening". The illustrations are perfectly beautiful. One of its outstanding features to me is a reproduction of the twelve Furber prints from Colonial Williamsburg. We have two copies of this book, one in Monroe and one in West Monroe, both given as memorial books. A very fine and scholarly book recently added to our collection is "The Solitary Singer"; a critical biography of Walt Whitman, written by Gay Wilson Allen. A book which should appeal to all who read her column in the daily paper is "Four Weeks to Beauty" by Josephine Lowman.

If you have not visited your library recently, make an opportunity to do so as soon as possible.

DERBY COMEBACK

Men are wearing derbies again in New York, it is reported by men's hat manufacturers. The trend toward more formal business dress among city dwellers is held responsible for the revival. The 1955 derby, however, has a narrower brim and fuller crown than the old - fashioned variety. It is available in pearl gray, brown or black.

Girl Scout News

A really important day in any girl's life is the one on which she was invested and became a sure 'nuf Girl Scout. No Brownie Scouts have ever been prouder than those of Troop 48, who received their pins recently. Following the idea in the Brownie story of the little girl who asked the wise old owl to tell her how to find the helpful brownie, the girls followed the instruction "Twist me and turn me and show me the elf. I looked in the pool and saw ——." Of course, you know what rhymes.

A mirror surrounded by greenery made the fairy pool, which each girl looked into before making her promise and receiving her pin from Mrs. M. A. Denoux. troop leader. A flag ceremony preceded the investiture, to which the girls had invited their mothers, Mrs. Robert Easterling, council president, and Miss Annis Klie, Girl Scout executive. Of course, it added interest to the occasion to have a tea party afterward. Mrs. Yeldell took pictures of the group and of individual girls, pictures they will treasure in years to come.

Registered as leader of the troop is Mrs. M. A. Denoux. Mrs. R. T. Armstrong and Mrs. D. G. Kiper are assistants. Mrs. Berry Yeldell is troop committee chairman, with the following mothers registered on the committee: Mrs. M.E. Pickett, Jr., Mrs. R. W. Mattingly, Mrs. J. W. Womack, Mrs. Floyd Stone, Jr., Mrs. J. R. Bennett, Mrs. J. J. Carso, and Mrs. E. R. Marshall.

Plans for the rest of the school year for Troop 48 call for use of a good many consultants to help the girls get a varied experience in singing, folk dancing, home making, community visits, safety, and other Girl Scout program activities. Of course, the girls wouldn't miss taking part in the birthday program and Girl Scout Week events, as well as the forthcoming cookie sale.

Troop 29, first year Intermediates under the leadership of Mrs. M. L. Quillen and Mrs. B. P. Graham invited the girls in their grade who are not Scouts to a Valentine party at their meeting place at Grace Church parish house. The girls of Troop 29 planned games and refreshments, made the cookies, and did a good job of entertaining their guests, according to their leaders. The girls were carrying out the Homemaking requirements for Second Class Rank. Suzanne Cason is a new member of the troop, having transfered from Troop 26.

Troop 12 had a hilarious party, so we're told, last week. It wasn't exactly a Valentine affair, but just a chance to have fun. Mrs. George Varino started it all by offering to send refreshments to the meeting if the girls wanted to call it a party. The leaders and the girls accepted the offer and planned games to make it a special treat. We know some people read this column because we hear that Mrs. Owen and Mrs. Parsons used the elastic relay that we described recently. The girls found it and the donkey relay loads of fun.

Girl Scout Week, the Juliette Low Fund, and the cookie sale loom large in the plans troops are making right now.

HEART DRIVE WORKERS—Among the women actively participating in the "Heart Sunday" drive between 2 and 5 o'clock today will be (left) Mrs. Cleora Wilson, district chairman of the Selman Field zone, and Mrs. Kent Wallace, worker in the Lake Shore area. More than 3,000 workers will join Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. Wallace in house-to-house solicitation today. (Staff photo by John Fogleman.)

Be Up To Date On New Fabrics

The market is offering many, many kinds of fabrics to the woman who sews for the family. There are all kinds of materials made of the natural fibers — cotton, linen, silk, and wool. It has, also, many fabrics of the man-made fibers—rayon, acetate, nylon, acrelan, dacron, vicara dynel and orlon.

Many of the natural fibers have been blended with man-made fibers as cotton with nylon, wool with silk, etc. Many of the cottons and linens have been treated to make them crease resistant. The woolens have been treated for wash ability. The rayons have been treated to keep them from stretching.

When shopping for fabrics we need to know some of these characteristics of the materials we buy. We need to know of what fiber or fibers it is woven, if, of mixed fibers, what percentage of each fiber was used in the blend. We need to know what care the fabric should be given — hand wash, machine wash or dry clean. Good manufacturers furnish this information with each bolt of fabrics or on each ready-made garment.

Take care to select a pattern for the material you selected. For firm material that has no "give," choose a pattern with drop shoulder or kimino sleeve. You will notice the majority of the patterns have this type sleeve. Materials that have been treated for crease resistance or disciplined are often difficult to use, if suitable pattern is not chosen. Many of the new materials, or their bends, do not "give" much with body movements. For this reason choose a pattern with ample measurements across the large parts of the bust, hip, waist and upper arm. Pattern sizes which you use for other fabrics are satisfactory for the blended or man-made fibers.

The tension of the machine, the size of the needle, the type of thread, and the length of the stitches should be just right for the new fabrics. The bulletin entitled, "Sewing" gives a guide to stitching the new fabrics. This bulletin was prepared by the LSU Extension Clothing Specialist, Margaret Brumby. Simplicity Key to Successful Living

Every where you go, you hear so many comments about how complicated life is today. Is it life or is it you? Here is a splendid thought on this subject. May be this article will help us where and what is the real trouble.

"Simplicity is the mater key to successful living. Life is complicated only for complicated people. It's simple and sunny and friendly for simple men and women. These sympathetic, natural, easy - going, kind folks are seldom misunderstood although often underestimated.

Simplicity in action and in speech will make friends for you in any circle. To remain natural and simple in the complex life is a real accomplishment. If you can do it, and are doing it—then you have the right answers to successful living.

NO PEEK-A-BOO

It is not a good idea to play peek-a-boo with a young baby. Sometimes a child will play the game alone pulling covers over her head, and in the excitement twist the covers in a way that will be difficult for her to remove.

SPARKLING RINGS

To keep your diamond engagement ring sparkling, scrub it often with a toothbrush dipped into hot soapsuds.

Vidalia Garden Club Meets

VIDALIA — The Vidalia Garden Club held its regular meeting on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Lloyd L. Bailey, with Miss Inez Callaway, home demonstration agent of the parish, as co-hostess.

Schiele, president, made several announcements including the March of Dimes polio campaign, and gave a report on the benefit basketball games played last Friday night at the high school gymnasium for the polio fund. This was sponsored by the Lions Club of Vidalia, and plans were announced for the Spring Carnival sponsored by the WSCS and held Friday in the high school gymnasium.

After completion of the business session, a film was shown of roses of the Jackson and Perkins Rose company of Newark, N. J., a gorgeous array of different kinds of roses were pictured and shown. The blooms were of numerous hues and sizes.

Mardi Gras Is Underway In Mobile

MOBILE, Ala. — Mobile's Mardi Gras got off to a rollicking start this week as the gay old city plunged into a round of 15 parades and enough merrymaking to last the liveliest bon vivant through Lent.

Climax of the celebration comes Mardi Gras day, Tuesday, Feb. 22, when early varieties of azaleas along Mobile's famous Azalea trail are expected to be at their height.

Ordinarily, these early varieties would be almost through blooming by that time, but unusually cold weather this winter delayed the beginning of the azalea blooming period.

The combination of Mardi Gras and the Azalea Trail Festival provides one of the nation's most lavish pageants. The brilliantly flaming azaleas delight thousands of visitors by day, while torch-lit parades entertain by night.

The first parade this year, Feb. 10, was staged by the Order of Polka Dots, a women's mystic society. Mobile, which calls itself the "Mother of Mystics," now has over a score of these social organizations.

Fever pitch of the merry-making comes Mardi Gras day with six parades and a glittering round of receptions, luncheons, parties and dances. General street masking and street dancing are the order of the day in the fun-loving Gulf city.

Simplicity Key to Successful Living

Every where you go, you hear so many comments about how complicated life is today. Is it life or is it you? Here is a splendid thought on this subject. May be this article will help us where and what is the real trouble.

"Simplicity is the mater key to successful living. Life is complicated only for complicated people. It's simple and sunny and friendly for simple men and women. These sympathetic, natural, easy - going, kind folks are seldom misunderstood although often underestimated.

Simplicity in action and in speech will make friends for you in any circle. To remain natural and simple in the complex life is a real accomplishment. If you can do it, and are doing it—then you have the right answers to successful living.

NO PEEK-A-BOO

It is not a good idea to play peek-a-boo with a young baby. Sometimes a child will play the game alone pulling covers over her head, and in the excitement twist the covers in a way that will be difficult for her to remove.

SPARKLING RINGS

Sh-h-h-h!

We want to share our secret with you. Wonderful things have been happening the past few months. Skilled craftsmen have been fashioning the beautiful and useful accessories for casual living that the discriminating homemaker demands. You'll see them at Hiller's soon. Then we won't be so shy when we say, "It's Hiller's for the unusual."

Baby Carriages Get New Look

The new crop of 1955 model baby carriages is going in for three-tone color jobs and modernstreamlining as advanced as those exhibited by the automobile manufacturers.

These pint - size sedans and convertibles are being shown in such color combinations as navy, light blue and ivory and other flashy combinations calculated to bring pride to the hearts of both baby and parents.

Baby carriage manufacturers rival the sales talk of the automobile salesmen in their comments about chassis construction, brakes, luxurious accessories and special safety features.

One carriage advertises an "exclusive fulcrum bar," said to smooth out bumps in rough sidewalks, four - wheel brakes, no-tip stand, free wheeling precision ball bearings and scientific balance.

The European sports car influence can be detected in wire wheels, custom hoods with braid trim and polished bone handles. But the triple chrome plating and baked - enamel finishes are pure Detroit.

One development in which baby carriages are ahead of the automobile is chlorophyll treatment of the interior.

Little Theatre Curtain Call

By MARION FISHER

Last night the final curtain closed a very successful five night run of the third production of the current Little Theatre season. The five members of the cast of "Affairs of State," drew a great deal of well deserved commendation from the enthusiastic audiences, for each performance. Director Thom Feuerstein is to be congratulated on this, his latest, success. His "know how" in stage craft was apparent throughout each act of this play. The beautiful modern setting which he designed, and which was very skillfully built and brought to completion by several loyal and tireless assistants has been the focal point of a great deal of praise and approving comment. Each member of the cast, the stage crew, and all who participated in any way, in the production of this show, should feel justly proud of the results.

During the run of each play, during the season, one of the Garden Clubs of Monroe, decorates the foyer of our play house. It is not by accident that these unusual and attractive displays are there to be enjoyed by each member of the theater audiences. They are the product of the skill and artistry of many ladies who make gardening and flower arrangement a very practical hobby. We, of the Little Theatre are very fortunate to have the benefit, and pleasure of enjoying the evidence of their talents.

Another feature of interest, during each play, is the art exhibit arranged in the coffee room, where theaterites gather during intermission. The one man show of the work of Charles Copeland, shown during "Affairs of State" has been of unusual interest, and has brought into focus the fact that right in our midst, and perhaps unknown to some of us, we have people of great talent. The inter-relationship of varied skills and talents, brought together under the roof of our play house, is very convincing evidence of the important role a community theater plays in our cultural and civic life.

No Little Theater production is possible without the participation of many people, from the board of directors, and the executive director, on through the list of those who help build the set, arrange the lighting, help with the wardrobe, the props, the make-up, and all of the innumerable details that a dramatic production entails. There is much hard work, fun, recreation, and gratifying satisfaction awaiting any one who chooses to make this his hobby. It seems to "get in ones blood," and the surprising thing about the situation is that more people haven't discovered what they have been missing by overlooking this fascinating activity.

Why Grow Old?

By Josephine Lowman

You Need Leg To Stand On; It Might As Well Be Pretty

We all need a leg to stand on! Speaking figuratively or philosophically, we might as well make it as good looking as possible! A slim ankle and a beautifully curved calf are lovely parts of a charming figure.

The shape of our legs is dictated somewhat by bony structure (knock knees, bowlegs, or large bones in the ankle) but muscle development and distribution of fat also play important parts. I give calf slimming and developing exercises and ankle slimming exercises quite often in this column. Today let's consider fat knees.

This is a most difficult spot to reduce. Of course if you are overweight, a general loss will make a big difference in your knees as well as in your figure as a whole. Also let me remind you who have fat knees that these are often prettier than those which are too bony.

Massage

However, if yours are too fat, do the following two things. This is one spot in which you need have no fear of strenuous massage. I do not believe that much difference can be wrought through massage, but in this spot where you can knead the flesh vigorously between your fingers and the heel of your hand, you can improve the situation some.

Weak Arches

It doesn't matter how pretty your legs are, you will not look or act that way if you have weak arches. These can make you feel miserable and tired all over and can even cause pain in the feet, the calves and thighs and even in the hips. As the years and the pounds mount, you will be very wise to take some arch strengthening exercises. Of course, get rid of the pounds, too.

Here is an arch exercise. Sit in a chair with your legs stretched out in front of you, heels resting on the floor. Grip hard with your toes, pulling them down toward the floor. Hold while you count to ten slowly. Relax and repeat.

If you would like to have my exercise leaflet for legs, which gives corrective exercises for the most common leg defects, send a stamped- self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 13 "Take Steps Toward Lovely Legs." Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Tomorrow: "Science Has Eased Work; We Retire at Earlier Age."

Methodist Film 'Sound Of Stone' Scheduled Here

St. Paul's Methodist Church will be the scene of the Louisiana premiere showing of a new religious movie on Friday, February 25th. "The Sound of a Stone" is the title of the new color film on civil rights, produced by the Methodist board of social and economic relations.

The title of the film is suggested by the rippling of a lake's surface when a small stone is thrown in the water. A narrator's opening lines set the mood: 'Small incidents magnify. Like the stone thrown into water — until the cause of the disturbance and what it really means is hidden by the ripples of the waves — touching everything — even shores for which the waves were never intended. Who knows what the stone carelessly thrown may bring?"

Henry Jordan, hero of the picture, and a high school teacher is suddenly plunged into a vicious and unjustified campaign of unconfirmed rumors and street corner gossip which pin the "subversive" label on him, threatening his home, reputation and livelihood. The conflict is only partially resolved at the end suggesting that the damage of such slanderous attacks is very extensive and not easily stopped.

The film will be shown as a part of the "Family Night" program of the church, sponsored by the Men's Club. A covered dish supper will be served at 6:15, with each family contributing some dish to the supper. The film will be shown at 7:00 p. m. in the church sanctuary. Thomas Youngblood, president of the Men's Club, invites the families and friends of the church to attend the supper and the showing of the film. The church is located at Lexington and Orell.

MY ANSWER by Billy Graham

QUESTION: I find it very difficult to believe in the resurrection of Christ. You can say what you like, but if a man came and told you that he had seen someone alive three days after he was buried, would you believe him? J. F. R.

ANSWER: It would depend on who that "someone" was. If he was just an ordinary person like you or me, then admittedly I should regard such a statement as entirely improbable. But if the man in question was a person like Jesus of Nazareth — a person who claimed to be none other than the Son of God and who demonstrated that claim by His mighty works—then I should be quite ready to believe the statement.

Moreover, if on inquiry I found that a number of other people bore the same testimony and that as a direct result of what they had seen and known their lives had been transformed with a new joy and power, then I should feel quite certain that what they said was true.

The Bible says concerning the Lord Jesus that he was "declared to be the Son of God with power . . . by the resurrection from the dead" (Romans 1:7). Yet as Christians we do not simply believe that Jesus was the Son of God because He rose from the dead. We also believe He rose from the dead because He was (and is) the Son of God.

The key to all the miracles of the New Testament is the person of Christ Himself. If we really believe He was what He claimed to be, then His resurrection is not only a probability — it is a certainty.

(What is your question? Write Billy Graham care of this newspaper.)

Why Grow Old?

By Josephine Lowman

You Need Leg To Stand On; It Might As Well Be Pretty

We all need a leg to stand on! Speaking figuratively or philosophically, we might as well make it as good looking as possible! A slim ankle and a beautifully curved calf are lovely parts of a charming figure.

The shape of our legs is dictated somewhat by bony structure (knock knees, bowlegs, or large bones in the ankle) but muscle development and distribution of fat also play important parts. I give calf slimming and developing exercises and ankle slimming exercises quite often in this column. Today let's consider fat knees.

This is a most difficult spot to reduce. Of course if you are overweight, a general loss will make a big difference in your knees as well as in your figure as a whole. Also let me remind you who have fat knees that these are often prettier than those which are too bony.

Massage

However, if yours are too fat, do the following two things. This is one spot in which you need have no fear of strenuous massage. I do not believe that much difference can be wrought through massage, but in this spot where you can knead the flesh vigorously between your fingers and the heel of your hand, you can improve the situation some.

Weak Arches

It doesn't matter how pretty your legs are, you will not look or act that way if you have weak arches. These can make you feel miserable and tired all over and can even cause pain in the feet, the calves and thighs and even in the hips. As the years and the pounds mount, you will be very wise to take some arch strengthening exercises. Of course, get rid of the pounds, too.

Here is an arch exercise. Sit in a chair with your legs stretched out in front of you, heels resting on the floor. Grip hard with your toes, pulling them down toward the floor. Hold while you count to ten slowly. Relax and repeat.

If you would like to have my exercise leaflet for legs, which gives corrective exercises for the most common leg defects, send a stamped- self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 13 "Take Steps Toward Lovely Legs." Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Methodist Film 'Sound Of Stone' Scheduled Here

St. Paul's Methodist Church will be the scene of the Louisiana premiere showing of a new religious movie on Friday, February 25th. "The Sound of a Stone" is the title of the new color film on civil rights, produced by the Methodist board of social and economic relations.

The title of the film is suggested by the rippling of a lake's surface when a small stone is thrown in the water. A narrator's opening lines set the mood: 'Small incidents magnify. Like the stone thrown into water — until the cause of the disturbance and what it really means is hidden by the ripples of the waves — touching everything — even shores for which the waves were never intended. Who knows what the stone carelessly thrown may bring?"

Henry Jordan, hero of the picture, and a high school teacher is suddenly plunged into a vicious and unjustified campaign of unconfirmed rumors and street corner gossip which pin the "subversive" label on him, threatening his home, reputation and livelihood. The conflict is only partially resolved at the end suggesting that the damage of such slanderous attacks is very extensive and not easily stopped.

The film will be shown as a part of the "Family Night" program of the church, sponsored by the Men's Club. A covered dish supper will be served at 6:15, with each family contributing some dish to the supper. The film will be shown at 7:00 p. m. in the church sanctuary. Thomas Youngblood, president of the Men's Club, invites the families and friends of the church to attend the supper and the showing of the film. The church is located at Lexington and Orell.

MY ANSWER by Billy Graham

QUESTION: I find it very difficult to believe in the resurrection of Christ. You can say what you like, but if a man came and told you that he had seen someone alive three days after he was buried, would you believe him? J. F. R.

ANSWER: It would depend on who that "someone" was. If he was just an ordinary person like you or me, then admittedly I should regard such a statement as entirely improbable. But if the man in question was a person like Jesus of Nazareth — a person who claimed to be none other than the Son of God and who demonstrated that claim by His mighty works—then I should be quite ready to believe the statement.

Moreover, if on inquiry I found that a number of other people bore the same testimony and that as a direct result of what they had seen and known their lives had been transformed with a new joy and power, then I should feel quite certain that what they said was true.

The Bible says concerning the Lord Jesus that he was "declared to be the Son of God with power . . . by the resurrection from the dead" (Romans 1.7). Yet as Christians we do not simply believe that Jesus was the Son of God because He rose from the dead. We also believe He rose from the dead because He was (and is) the Son of God.

The key to all the miracles of the New Testament is the person of Christ Himself. If we really believe He was what He claimed to be, then His resurrection is not only a probability — it is a certainty.

Williams, Keel Star In Picture At Jim Theatre

Jupiter's Darling," one of the most spectacular musicals to come from M-G-M, at the Jim Theatre, with Esther Williams, Howard Keel, Marge and Gower Champion and George Sanders in the starring roles, and with Richard Haydn, William Demarest and hundreds of Roman and Carthaginian "warriors" in the supporting cast.

Unfolding a laugh, song and dance-filled satire on Rome, 216 B.C., the new offering was filmed in CinemaScope and color in scenes entailing a total of 82 sets, some of them the largest ever built on the Metro lot. Running the gamut from vast Roman forums and three blocks of Roman streets to spectacular pools, the sets necessitated use of more than half of the studio's sound stages in addition to three exterior lots.

Miss Williams is given three lavish and unusual swimming numbers in Jupiter's Darling," filmed on the Pacific coast and in Florida's Silver Springs. Her role is that of Amytis, betrothed to the dictator, Fabius (George Sanders) but preferring capture at the hands of the invading Carthaginian general, Hannibal (Howard Keel). Marge and Gower Champion, seen respectively as a slave and a captured warrior, star in two of the picture's dance routines, done to the songs, "If This Be Slav'ry" and "The Life of an Elephant," in which a number of pachyderms appear as "chorines."

Other of the film's new songs, written by Burton Lane and Harold Adamson, are "I Had a Dream," "Hannibal's Victory March," "This Is What I Love," "Never Trust a Woman" and "Don't Let This Night Get Away."

"Jupiter's Darling" was directed by George Sidney who directed such previous Howard Keel musical hits as "Show Boat," "Annie Get Your Gun," and "Kiss Me Kate." It was produced by George Wells, producer of "Dangerous When Wet," one of Esther Williams' most successful vehicles.

A new program of enlistments was announced Saturday by the navy recruiting service. Young men between the ages of 18 to 31 who are high school graduates are eligible to qualify for enlistment directly into the aviation branch of the U. S. navy.

Men who qualify will be enlisted as airman recruits and assured a navy apprenticeship school in the aviation field. Upon graduate they will be assigned duty with the air arm of the navy such as air bases, aircraft carriers or other ships with an aviation complement.

J. T. Reagan, commissaryman chief U. S. navy of the U. He further stated that men who do not possess a high school education can still qualify for this type of schooling in addition to the many other apprenticeship schools available to naval recruits.

No waiting lists are maintainel by the navy and enlistments may be effected immediately.

Actors Like Variety

By JOAN CRAWFORD
(Guest Columnist)

HOLLYWOOD, February 19 — Variety is the spice of life for actors. There isn't a comedian who doesn't yearn at one time or another to do Hamlet or Macbeth, and there are few dramatic stars who do not have a secret longing to don the cap and bells of the comedian and have a self-satisfying fling at low comedy.

And sooner or later, all of them want to become directors.

The urge to lay aside the grease paint and take up the hypothetical megaphone has been instilled in the blood of actors since the infancy of motion pictures. And down through the years a small group of thespians trickled over into the directorial ranks. In late years, however, the metamorphosis has become decidedly more active.

This has been largely due to the heirarchy at the major studios who have helped pave the way for acting talent to have a fling at the directorial side. They reasoned that, after all, who could be better qualified to direct than an intelligent actor who has had a chance to study the mores and methods of a myriad of directors during the making of scores of pictures.

A clear cut example is Joseph Pevney, now a top-ranking director at Universal - International following a distinguished career as an actor, first on the legitimate stage and then on the screen.

Pevney, who recently finished the directorial chore on "Six Bridges to Cross," a fast-paced melodrama starring Tony Curtis, Julie Adams and George Nader, made his movie acting debut in the George Raft starrer, "Nocturne," and followed this up with a role with the late John Garfield in "Body and Soul."

When he moved over to U. I. for a character part in "Outside The Wall," he talked over his directing ambitions with the studio production department and was given his first directorial chore with the picture, "Shakedown." His work on the new "Six Bridges to Cross," which he filmed on location in Boston, is regarded by U.I. production executives as one of filmdom's top directorial jobs of the past year.

You see, I have been working with Pevney in "Female on the Beach," now nearing completion, and here's where I picked up so much information about this fine director. But I have, over a period of years, observed this tendency in actors — and now that I have the opportunity to write about it, I'm making the most of it.

Jose Ferrer, an extremely talented actor of both stage and screen, got his initial motion picture directing job at the same studio when they purchased his hit play, "The Shrike." Ferrer also stars in the soon-to-be-released dramatic film,

Previously, Dick Powell had turned himself into an acting-directing combo in a similar fashion. Currently, the former Arkansas crooner is giving more or less full time to directing.

The current musical hit, "So This Is Paris," was directed by Richard Quine, a young man who devoted his first few years in the industry to acting. And Richard Carlson (Richard seems to be a magic name in the actor-director field) recently made his megaphonic debut with an adventure yarn titled "Four Guns to the Border."

Other actors from both the stage and screen who have deserted the greasepaint for the directorial chair include Otto Preminger, Abner Biberman, Jack Arnold, Robert Montgomery, Gregory Ratoff, Maurice Evans and Howard Lindsay.

One of the first was veteran Raoul Walsh whose acting career was abruptly stopped when he lost an eye in an unfortunate automobile accident. Undaunted, he turned to directing, and has long held an envied position as one of the industry's most sought-after director

Arthur Lubin, who recently directed "Lady Godiva of Coventry," and who has held the directorial reigns on all of the highly-popular "Francis" pictures, turned to directing from the acting ranks, as did George Marshall, one of the screen's most popular directors of outdoor action films.

The distaff side is represented, of course, by Ida Lupino who in recent years has turned to producing-directing with all of the will of a determined female. All in all, though, the field is still predominately a male one—with more and more of the gents beginning to realize directorial ambitions as the years roll by.

MARY HAWORTH'S MAIL

Man, 46, Is Indifferent To Lovemaking; Wife Frets

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am 28 and my husband is 46. We have been married three months and my husband doesn't show any affection for me. He never kisses me goodnight or mentions going out. When I try to get him to visit friends, or go to a movie, he says, "Not tonight." Or "I don't feel like going out."

I have asked him if he made a mistake by marrying me. He says if anyone made a mistake it is I (his wife)—that I am too young to go on with him, feling as he does. Yet he says he loves me. Do you think this is possible?

Jesse (I'll call him) claims that he doesn't know what is wrong. I suggested that he consult a doctor and he told me that he had mentioned his condition to his doctor, who said, with a laugh, that it could be his age. Jesse is a business man and always has been very successful; but this past year was bad, in a business way. Do you think this could be part of his trouble?

I keep house, and every week Jesse gives me a very large sum of money for household expenses; he isn't stingy at all. Before we married, we dined at the nicest places and went fishing, or to the theater, or played golf. Now we don't do a thing but watch TV. I love him very much and hope this problem can be ironed out. Please give me your best advice. —G.L.

Letter Veils The Difficulty

DEAR G.L.: It is difficult to offer remedial ideas concerning a problem veiled in mystery. Your counsellor ought to know something about the pattern of Jesse's love life (or lack of it) prior to his affiliation with you. This would furnish a lead towards understanding the obstacles he encounters (within himself) in relation to you, in marriage.

Is he a bachelor, a widower or a divorced man? Was your courtship orthodox, or did you have an affair with him? Exact information along these lines would shed some light on his emotional bias, and spark creative thinking as to how to help him attain normally competent, self-confident interest in lovemaking—which would revive his zest for living, and cause him to be more sociable.

In my opinion, Jesse's age probably isn't the reason for his listless platonic behavior at home. He is quite young enough to be a satisfactory bridegroom, if he were free of neurotic blocks and tensions. There are likelier explanations for his condition—for example:

1. Fear. Repressed fear of displeasing you; of disappointing your expectations—thus intolerably humiliating himself, from his view—if he were to put aside reserve, caution, etc., and stand disclosed as simply himself in the role of married lover. So he plays safe, and takes no risk, by signifying no interest whatever in that sort of thing. In consequence, he exists at a half-dead level of self-invertment in the relationship—defensively and apologetically.

Hopeful Case For Psychiatry

2. Another possibility is that Jesse has a neurotic aversion to self-giving or self-revelation in relation to anyone, but especially a woman—due to unconscious distrust of people generally. This impotent attitude may carry over from early-life associations in which he felt mocked, exploited, or meanly betrayed (by surprise attack), after his trust was given, or his heart offered defenselessly.

3. Or his apathy in marriage may mask an unconscious punitive hostility towards the current love-object in his experience—a compulsive desire to take endless revenge for slights to his ego, inflected by others long ago.

In any case, Jesse is a negatively conditioned chap, and as such, a lone wolf and lonely habitually, I imagine. In courting you, he did all necessary to hold your interest, it seems. Now that you are married to him, living with him, perhaps you are simply getting to know him "as is"—and he may be truly distressen for your sake, that he feels so little need of human contact aside from routine domestic companionship. However, it is a hopeful sign that Jesse has spoken to his doctor—whose rejoinder was pretty stupid. To really iron out the problem, Jesse ought to get first-rate psychiatric help, available in your area. —M.H.

Light Installed For Protection

Major Jack Davis, traffic coordinator for the Monroe police traffic department, said yesterday a part-time traffic light has been installed at the intersection of Texas and Eighth streets for the protection of school children attending Carver Elementary School on Orange street.

He asked that all motorists note the light and watch for the children.

According to Davis, the light will operate from 7:45 a.m. to 8:30 a.m. every morning and from 3 p.m. to 4 p.m. every afternoon on week days. It will not operate Saturday or Sunday.

LIGHT SWITCHES

Washable light - switch plates made of glass or ceramic tile can be cleaned by sudsing with a cloth or sponge. If they are made of metal, follow this washing with a brisk polishing.

RED UPHOLSTERY

Upholstery fabric now run the color gamut. Latest surveys show red and its various shades in the lead, with the beige - tan - cocoa group tied for second place with dark green.

Actors Like Variety

By JOAN CRAWFORD
(Guest Columnist)

HOLLYWOOD, February 19 — Variety is the spice of life for actors. There isn't a comedian who doesn't yearn at one time or another to do Hamlet or Macbeth, and there are few dramatic stars who do not have a secret longing to don the cap and bells of the comedian and have a self-satisfying fling at low comedy.

And sooner or later, all of them want to become directors.

The urge to lay aside the grease paint and take up the hypothetical megaphone has been instilled in the blood of actors since the infancy of motion pictures. And down through the years a small group of thespians trickled over into the directorial ranks. In late years, however, the metamorphosis has become decidedly more active.

This has been largely due to the heirarchy at the major studios who have helped pave the way for acting talent to have a fling at the directorial side. They reasoned that, after all, who could be better qualified to direct than an intelligent actor who has had a chance to study the mores and methods of a myriad of directors during the making of scores of pictures.

A clear cut example is Joseph Pevney, now a top-ranking director at Universal - International following a distinguished career as an actor, first on the legitimate stage and then on the screen.

Pevney, who recently finished the directorial chore on "Six Bridges to Cross," a fast-paced melodrama starring Tony Curtis, Julie Adams and George Nader, made his movie acting debut in the George Raft starrer, "Nocturne," and followed this up with a role with the late John Garfield in "Body and Soul."

When he moved over to U. I. for a character part in "Outside The Wall," he talked over his directing ambitions with the studio production department and was given his first directorial chore with the picture, "Shakedown." His work on the new "Six Bridges to Cross," which he filmed on location in Boston, is regarded by U.I. production executives as one of filmdom's top directorial jobs of the past year.

You see, I have been working with Pevney in "Female on the Beach," now nearing completion, and here's where I picked up so much information about this fine director. But I have, over a period of years, observed this tendency in actors — and now that I have the opportunity to write about it, I'm making the most of it.

Jose Ferrer, an extremely talented actor of both stage and screen, got his initial motion picture directing job at the same studio when they purchased his hit play, "The Shrike." Ferrer also stars in the soon-to-be-released dramatic film.

Previously, Dick Powell had turned himself into an acting-directing combo in a similar fashion. Currently, the former Arkansas crooner is giving more or less full time to directing.

The current musical hit, "So This Is Paris," was directed by Richard Quine, a young man who devoted his first few years in the industry to acting. And Richard Carlson (Richard seems to be a magic name in the actor-director field) recently made his megaphonic debut with an adventure yarn titled "Four Guns to the Border."

Other actors from both the stage and screen who have deserted the greasepaint for the directorial chair include Otto Preminger, Abner Biberman, Jack Arnold, Robert Montgomery, Gregory Ratoff, Maurice Evans and Howard Lindsay.

One of the first was veteran Raoul Walsh whose acting career was abruptly stopped when he lost an eye in an unfortunate automobile accident. Undaunted, he turned to directing, and has long held an envied position as one of the industry's most sought-after director

Arthur Lubin, who recently directed "Lady Godiva of Coventry," and who has held the directorial reigns on all of the highly-popular "Francis" pictures, turned to directing from the acting ranks, as did George Marshall, one of the screen's most popular directors of outdoor action films.

The distaff side is represented, of course, by Ida Lupino who in recent years has turned to producing-directing with all of the will of a determined female. All in all, though, the field is still predominately a male one—with more and more of the gents beginning to realize directorial ambitions as the years roll by.

MARY HAWORTH'S MAIL

Man, 46, Is Indifferent To Lovemaking; Wife Frets

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am 28 and my husband is 46. We have been married three months and my husband doesn't show any affection for me. He never kisses me goodnight or mentions going out. When I try to get him to visit friends, or go to a movie, he says, "Not tonight." Or "I don't feel like going out."

I have asked him if he made a mistake by marrying me. He says if anyone made a mistake it is I (his wife)—that I am too young to go on with him, feling as he does. Yet he says he loves me. Do you think this is possible?

Jesse (I'll call him) claims that he doesn't know what is wrong. I suggested that he consult a doctor and he told me that he had mentioned his condition to his doctor, who said, with a laugh, that it could be his age. Jesse is a business man and always has been very successful; but this past year was bad, in a business way. Do you think this could be part of his trouble?

I keep house, and every week Jesse gives me a very large sum of money for household expenses; he isn't stingy at all. Before we married, we dined at the nicest places and went fishing, or to the theater, or played golf. Now we don't do a thing but watch TV. I love him very much and hope this problem can be ironed out. Please give me your best advice. —G.L.

Letter Veils The Difficulty

DEAR G.L.: It is difficult to offer remedial ideas concerning a problem veiled in mystery. Your counsellor ought to know something about the pattern of Jesse's love life (or lack of it) prior to his affiliation with you. This would furnish a lead towards understanding the obstacles he encounters (within himself) in relation to you, in marriage.

Is he a bachelor, a widower or a divorced man? Was your courtship orthodox, or did you have an affair with him? Exact information along these lines would shed some light on his emotional bias, and spark creative thinking as to how to help him attain normally competent, self-confident interest in lovemaking—which would revive his zest for living, and cause him to be more sociable.

In my opinion, Jesse's age probably isn't the reason for his listless platonic behavior at home. He is quite young enough to be a satisfactory bridegroom, if he were free of neurotic blocks and tensions. There are likelier explanations for his condition—for example:

1. Fear. Repressed fear of displeasing you; of disappointing your expectations—thus intolerably humiliating himself, from his view—if he were to put aside reserve, caution, etc., and stand disclosed as simply himself in the role of married lover. So he plays safe, and takes no risk, by signifying no interest whatever in that sort of thing. In consequence, he exists at a half-dead level of self-invertment in the relationship—defensively and apologetically.

Hopeful Case For Psychiatry

2. Another possibility is that Jesse has a neurotic aversion to self-giving or self-revelation in relation to anyone, but especially a woman—due to unconscious distrust of people generally. This impotent attitude may carry over from early-life associations in which he felt mocked, exploited, or meanly betrayed (by surprise attack), after his trust was given, or his heart offered defenselessly.

3. Or his apathy in marriage may mask an unconscious punitive hostility towards the current love-object in his experience—a compulsive desire to take endless revenge for slights to his ego, inflected by others long ago.

In any case, Jesse is a negatively conditioned chap, and as such, a lone wolf and lonely habitually, I imagine. In courting you, he did all necessary to hold your interest, it seems. Now that you are married to him, living with him, perhaps you are simply getting to know him "as is"—and he may be truly distressen for your sake, that he feels so little need of human contact aside from routine domestic companionship. However, it is a hopeful sign that Jesse has spoken to his doctor—whose rejoinder was pretty stupid. To really iron out the problem, Jesse ought to get first-rate psychiatric help, available in your area. —M.H.

Light Installed For Protection

Major Jack Davis, traffic coordinator for the Monroe police traffic department, said yesterday a part-time traffic light has been installed at the intersection of Texas and Eighth streets for the protection of school children attending Carver Elementary School on Orange street.

He asked that all motorists note the light and watch for the children.

According to Davis, the light will operate from 7:45 a.m. to 8:30 a.m. every morning and from 3 p.m. to 4 p.m. every afternoon on week days. It will not operate Saturday or Sunday.

LIGHT SWITCHES

Washable light - switch plates made of glass or ceramic tile can be cleaned by sudsing with a cloth or sponge. If they are made of metal, follow this washing with a brisk polishing.

A great many so called "practical-minded" people look upon Christianity as purely idealistic and not applicable for use in the everyday down to earth business of living and making a living. But how mistaken they are! For the only way to living a fully abundant and victorious life is the way that Jesus taught us. This is our subject for today.

The Seniors and Pioneers will meet here at the church this evening at six o'clock.

Thought for the day:

"The universe pays every man in his own coin: if you smile, it smiles upon you in return; if you frown, you will be frowned at; if you sing, you will be invited into gay company; if you think, you will be entertained by thinkers; and if you love the world and earnestly seek for the good that is therein, you will be surrounded by loving friends, and nature will pour into your lap the treasures of the earth. Censure, criticize, and hate, and you will be censured, criticized, and hated by your fellow men. Every seed brings forth after its kind. Mistrust begets mistrust, and confidence begets confidence; kindness begets kindness, and love begets love."

You are welcome to attend our services.

REV. STELLWAGON

Stellwagon Day Will Be Held Sunday

The Ridge Avenue Baptist Church of West Monroe has designated next Sunday "Russell Stellwagon Day" in the church.

Russell Stellwagon is a young West Monroe man serving as a missionary in Japan. He has been in Japan for three and a half years on faith that the Lord would raise up friends back in America to provide the means to sustain his mission work.

Young Stellwagon, now 28, is the grandson of Mrs. Alda P. Henry, 301 Ludwig Avenue, West Monroe. He felt a special call to return to Japan as a missionary while in the armed service of our country in World War II. He was stationed in the Japanese area at the close of the war.

After being discharged from the armed services he entered Bob Jones University and after graduating from there he enrolled in the Northwestern School of Colleges of which the world - famed Billy Graham was then president.

Writing back to Rev. A. T. Mitchell in a letter dated February 11 Stellwagon mentioned one of the pagan religious festivals of the nation. He said, "Last week the annual festival of the fox god was held throughout Japan . . . The fox is supposed to be the messenger of the gods which hold the key to the rice storehouse in its mouth and therefore controls prosperity in the land. People think that by worshipping it they will have good business and fine crops for the coming year. Can you imagine giving thanks and honor to a lowly, thieving fox for the blessings of good crops . . ."

He stated in the same letter a great need for more Bibles and cast some light on the poverty in Japan by saying, "The children are too poor to pay thirty three cents for a New Testament."

Prayers and a love offering will be made next Sunday at Ridge Avenue Baptist Church for Rev. Stellwagon and his missionary work in Japan.

Rev. Mitchell states, "We have great hope for Christianity in Japan because young people of Japan are taking over the Sunday schools started by missionaries and continuing them. When youth is won, you can have hopes of winning a nation."

A great many so called "practical-minded" people look upon Christianity as purely idealistic and not applicable for use in the everyday down to earth business of living and making a living. Thought for the day:

"The universe pays every man in his own coin; if you smile, it smiles upon you in return; if you frown, you will be frowned at; if you sing, you will be invited into gay company; if you think, you will be entertained by thinkers; and if you love the world and earnestly seek for the good that is therein, you will be surrounded by loving friends, and nature will pour into your lap the treasures of the earth. Censure, criticize, and hate, and you will be censured, criticized, and hated by your fellow men. Every seed brings forth after its kind. Mistrust begets mistrust, and confidence begets confidence; kindness begets kindness, and love begets love."

REV. STELLWAGON

Stellwagon Day Will Be Held Sunday

The Ridge Avenue Baptist Church of West Monroe has designated next Sunday "Russell Stellwagon Day" in the church.

Russell Stellwagon is a young West Monroe man serving as a missionary in Japan. He has been in Japan for three and a half years on faith that the Lord would raise up friends back in America to provide the means to sustain his mission work.

Young Stellwagon, now 28, is the grandson of Mrs. Alda P. Henry, 301 Ludwig Avenue, West Monroe. He felt a special call to return to Japan as a missionary while in the armed service of our country in World War II. He was stationed in the Japanese area at the close of the war.

After being discharged from the armed services he entered Bob Jones University and after graduating from there he enrolled in the Northwestern School of Colleges of which the world - famed Billy Graham was then president.

Writing back to Rev. A. T. Mitchell in a letter dated February 11 Stellwagon mentioned one of the pagan religious festivals of the nation. He said, "Last week the annual festival of the fox god was held throughout Japan . . . The fox is supposed to be the messenger of the gods which hold the key to the rice storehouse in its mouth and therefore controls prosperity in the land. People think that by worshipping it they will have good business and fine crops for the coming year. Can you imagine giving thanks and honor to a lowly, thieving fox for the blessings of good crops . . ."

He stated in the same letter a great need for more Bibles and cast some light on the poverty in Japan by saying, "The children are too poor to pay thirty three cents for a New Testament."

Prayers and a love offering will be made next Sunday at Ridge Avenue Baptist Church for Rev. Stellwagon and his missionary work in Japan.

Rev. Mitchell states, "We have great hope for Christianity in Japan because young people of Japan are taking over the Sunday schools started by missionaries and continuing them. When youth is won, you can have hopes of winning a nation."

3 Ways To Prune Crepe Myrtles

While the ground is wet is a good time to pull weeds out of the lawn, especially those with long tap roots. These sometime grow in the shrubbery beds, too, right on top of the mulch with their thieving roots well established down in the soil.

Some plants that can be brought in from the woods to our gardens are fringe tree, (with its long white beard - like blooms in early spring) yellow jasmine vine, dogwood, red buds, wild azalea, holly, youpon and numerous varieties of trees. Think a long time before you dig plants from the woods. There are two reasons. We rob our woods of their beauty and the plants seldom live. Our nurseries carry these plants with feeder roots already established. Very few gardeners will take up sufficient amount of soil with the plant. All of the above mentioned shrubs and trees need acid soil, so use some of your well decayed organic matter, (humus) in the planting hole.

Red bubs planted in front of a gray house makes a breath-taking sight. Several fringe trees with their white beards is a beautiful sight in any yard. Both are medium size trees when full grown, and both flower in early spring. The yellow jasmine vine can be bought in buckets from local nurseries. Mr. Hunt reminded us last year that this vine makes a nice ground cover, too.

Short On Yard Tables?

In the picture you'll see how the Howard Montgomerys, 213 Grayling Lane, solved that problem. Large spools that hold wire were used for the tops, and iron legs fastened to these. Hardwares, selling wire, usually junk these spools. They make nice low seats too.

If you'll feed your pansies every two weeks you'll get more and larger blooms. You need to keep the blossoms picked too. Feed with a cup of 5-10-5 or 8-8-8 dissolved in a gallon of water.

Prune your abelias and crepe myrtles. If you want a tall plant, cut the tree back to one or two limbs and strip them of all twigs and branches. If you want a bushy shrub, cut the plant down to 3 or 4 feet in height, then prune the twigs and side branches leaving all the limbs clear. If you have a very large, old tree that blooms well just leave it alone. You'll not have large ponacles of blooms but you'll have lots of small blooms. It's next to impossible to prune a large tree unless you have a man and a tall ladder. If your crepe myrtle is old and doesn't bloom well, cut it down to 3 or 4 feet and let it start all over again. In any case, fertilize the plant well.

About Linens

Several years ago I judged linens at a fair in another part of the state. I'll never forget a handsome linen hand-made cut work table cloth. The owner had done such beautiful work and then starched the cloth as stiff as a board. There are several reasons why we never starch linen. First because starch rots the threads. Starched napkins are uncomfortable to use, and the table cloth won't stay smooth on the table. Linen has a silky look when ironed without starch. Starch completely covers this characteristic beauty of the fibers. A piece of real linen can become a family heirloom and handed down for several generations — if it is laundered and stored properly.

Shipping Camellias

At this season of the year when camellias are blooming, many blossoms are shipped to climates where they are not grown. They ship well if packed well. Cut the blooms while the sun is not shining on them. Put the stems in water for several hours. Line the shipping carton with wax paper, and place a layer of cotton batting in the bottom. Put the blooms on this cotton. Small pieces of fluffed up cotton placed among the leaves will help hold the petal secure and away from the sides of the box. Then put a layer of cotton over the flowers. It is not necessary to sprinkle the flowers with water, because the petals will discolor when packed wet.

Handy Hints

Shoulder pads are one of the problem items in women's clothing. It's impossible to press over them and they're clumsy on hangers. To save time and trouble, buy cards of large snaps and snap the pads in the dress. It will save money because one light and one dark pair of pads will serve all the dresses you own. They can be snapped in just before wearing the garment.

When putting elastic in a garment, pin the end of the new to the worn elastic. Then as the worn elastic pulls out the new will pull in.

Riboflavin On High

"Air sickness" may be the result of too little riboflavin (vitamin B2) in the body. Studies indicate that airplane pilots, hostesses and passengers may need extra riboflavin in their diets. Largest amounts of this vitamin are found in milk and liver. Smaller amounts are found in dried lima beans, broccoli, beets, mustard and turnip greens, collards, lean pork, other dried peas, beans and oysters. The vitamin is not killed by heat, but it is soluble in water.

Flower Show Weekly At Garden Center

Camellia lovers please note! The Camellia Show in Shreveport has been postponed until March 12 and 13, pending good weather from now until the date of the show.

Congratulations are in order to Mrs. Walter Colquitt of Shreveport. As winner of a national contest giving her the title of "the woman has done the most for American Horticulture in 1954." Mrs. Colquitt, known as Minnie to her friends, will receive an all-expense paid tour of Europe. The contest, which had 1,177 nominees was sponsored by the Horticulture Society of New York City and the Horticulture Travel Foundation. Mrs. Colquitt was selected winner on the basis of her work in directing flower shows, teaching, writing, editing, lecturing, research, plant breeding and ordinary gardening. Formal presentation of the foundation award will be made by Adrian Frylink, official of the two organizations, at a dinner in Shreveport on February 23. Guests at the dinner will include city officials, officers of the Louisiana Garden Club Federation, local garden club leaders and personal friends of Mrs. Colquitt. The tour is scheduled to begin April 13 and will include visits to horticulture shows in France, Belgium, England, Scotland and Ireland.

The colorful and beautiful flower show at the Garden Center this week was staged by members of the Caldwell Parish Garden Club in Columbia. Mrs. L. P. Craighead of Delhi and Mrs. C. C. Lucky, Monroe judged the show. In the arrangement class first place was awarded to Mrs. M. D. Ballard. Against a chartreuse background, Mrs. Ballard created a beautiful formal mass arrangement in yellow and white. The lines of the design were established with variegated sansevieria, and pale yellow gladiolus. Small yellow jonquils were used to fill in the design and yellow mums were massed in the focal area. Second place award went to Miss Lola Caldwell for a naturalistic arrangement of King Alfred daffodils. In a flat black container Miss Caldwell used green moss from the woods and arranged the King Alfreds just as if they were growing in the moss. This arrangement could bear the title "As Nature Grows." Third place award to Mrs. L. R. Adams, Sr. In a low pale pink container Mrs. Adams created a colorful springtime arrangement of pink gladiolus, King Alfred daffodils and Pink Perfection camellias. The camellias were cut with long stems and foliage. Some were used high in the arrangement, and others placed low, breaking the rim of the container.

In the horticulture class Mrs. Eva Humble was awarded a blue ribbon for Empress Camellia and a red ribbon for salmon gladiolus (greenhouse grown). Mrs. L. G. Adams was awarded a blue ribbon for yellow daffodil. Don't forget next Tuesday, February 22. Mrs. U. B. Evans will be in the Garden Center to help you with your horticulture problems. Jo Mangham exhibited two very beautiful hybrid amaryllis at the Garden Center this week. They have been greatly admired. Champion's Reward, a deep velvety red, and Diamond, a beautiful red-violet, two blooms on a strong scape. The flowers are eight inches across. D. H. Currie of Columbia brought in a four and one-half pound turnip. It's a beauty and good to eat too!

LIFE OF GEORGE WASHINGTON

Happy Years at Mount Vernon—6

While serving his country, George Washington always longed to return to Mount Vernon. He did so as soon as he could.

Happy to call himself a farmer once more, he rose early and spent hours riding over his farms, telling workmen what to do, hunting, and giving advice to neighbors who asked for it.

Famous people visited him including the French general, Lafayette, shown with him here, who helped him in the war. Lafayette's son was another visitor and the house usually was full of young folks. Washington was very happy.

He died at last at Mount Vernon at the age of 67 and is buried there. Thousands of Americans visit his home and grave every year. In coloring, leave the house white. Now you should have a six-part picture story of the first President that you can read on his birthday next Tuesday.

Newest Presbyterian Church Here Ornate

Covenant Presbyterian Church is one of the most ornate structures of the kind in north Louisiana. Exterior of the church is of English manor type in design. The variegated red brick walls contain projecting clinker brick with accents of limestone. These, with the steep pitched roof, are distinctive features.

Complete kitchen facilities are at the right and a Sunday school to the left contains six classrooms, offices, rest rooms and a mechanical equipment room.

Ceilings throughout are accoustically treated. The floors, except those of ceramic tile in the rest rooms and kitchen, are carpeted completely.

Fellowship hall is decorated and has exposed Roman brick walls, oak ceiling beams, tarverstone ceiling and lantern type light fixtures, white oak paneling in white oak trim, varnished in a warm tone.

Baldwin organ and pulpit furniture are finished to match. The plaster walls of the remainder of the building are painted in soft greens. On the south side of the building are warm tans and on the north side or in corridor areas, there is employed white oak varnished light brown.

In locating the building on the site, special pains was taken to provide for future expansion. It is located at one side of the church property bounded by Orell on the front, Milton on the east, and Emerson on the west. It comprises the first unit of the proposed building program.

In the future, contemplated construction will be adding another section of class rooms, a recreation room for old and young. Then erection of a large sanctuary with more office facilities, a session room, church parlor and more classroom units.

SOUTHERN GARDENER—

By William Lanier Hunt

Prepare Soil Before Planting

If you haven't already got it, go out and get it! Spring fever is better caught soon than late because there never seems to be enough days in February and March to get all our planting done. Dig your holes deep and do not stint on the humus you mix with your soil. Remember that clay soils will need one bushel of some kind of humus to every two bushels of soil worked in or chopped together and a big double handful of bone meal for each bushel of the mixture before you put it back into the hole. Deep holes and plenty of humus will save you a lot of watering in the hot summer days.

If you really want to enjoy growing perennials, annuals and bulbs, prepare the soil in your flower beds so that you can dig in them at any time you wish. Soil that is approximately one third clay, one third coarse sand and one third humus can be handled even right after a rain. Now you know the secret of these "green thumb" people who just dig into their flower beds and hand you a nice clump of something to take home with you. Most of us have too many flower beds and too little money to dig them all up at once and prepare the soil two feet deep, but we can work over one bed at a time. Be careful that you do not use fine sand instead of coarse in your soil preparation or you may have soil that is as hard as a brick when it dries. Never let the sun touch your soil. Nature doesn't. She manages to cover up her soil with something or other almost everywhere. Man uncovers it, and she goes around covering it back up as fast as she can. Unfortunately, man has a fiendish machine known as a bull dozer and has the score on his side. In the garden, there should always be a mulch of some kind over your soil. Here in the south, our soil gets too hot for many kinds of perennials unless we keep it mulched at all times.

There is always the question of what kind of humus one can get for soil preparation and mulches. For a long time, people were afraid to use saw dust because they had been warned that it was bad for plants. It is good for plants on one condition: that it be thoroughly rotten. Around a big pile of saw dust, you can find the most decayed material out at the edges where moisture and nitrogen have helped the bacteria to rot the particles. Even rotten saw dust will need a double handful of some complete fertilizer mixed with each bushel before you use it in the garden. If you fail to put in the fertilizer, your plants will go backward.

Sawdust and peat moss are ideal humus materials because there are no weed seeds nor bits of Bermuda grass, Johnson grass or other pests in them. There are many other kinds of humus like rotted straw, bagasse, chip mold and so on, but the proportion to use is always up to one third humus and two thirds heavy soil. There is nothing like coarse sand to hold the particles of soil apart all the year around. This coarse sand will not go away. The humus in soil is constantly being broken down and must be replaced from time to time, but the sand you put into your beds will always be there. It keeps your dirt in such a condition, along with the humus, that you can almost stick your fingers right down into the ground three or four inches deep with no trouble at all. This mixture is a living growing, breathing compost. You have never really gardened until you have made some soil the right way and seen how plants jump when they are set out in it! To set plants out in unprepared soil is simply nature - faking.

REV. W. W. GRAY

Rev. Gray Proves Valuable Leader Of New Church

Rev. Wayne W. Gray, who began his duties as minister of Covenant Presbyterian Church a little more than two years ago, has had a highly successful career here.

Leaders of the church here picked him as they found an unblemished record. He was educated at Southwestern in Memphis, later in Princeton Theological Seminary. He held two pastorates, one at Clarendon, Ark. and one at Caruthersville, Mo., before he went for five years as chaplain in World War Two.

At the close of the war, he became assistant pastor of Evergreen Presbyterian Church in Memphis, Tenn. and it was there that he was contacted and offered the local pastorate.

As indication of his leadership was his successful membership in Rotary while in Memphis, Tenn. His ability led to his being elected district governor for eastern Missouri, 1939-1940.

He is an active member of Rotary here and a leader in all that will advance the religious welfare of the Twin Cities.

The public is extended a cordial invitation to attend the Open House at Covenant Presbyterian Church today from 3 to 6 p.m. It will be observance of the third birthday of the church and the completion of the first of three units of the fast growing church.

Two Monroe Boys Receive Honors

3 Ways To Prune Crepe Myrtles

While the ground is wet is a good time to pull weeds out of the lawn, especially those with long tap roots. These sometime grow in the shrubbery beds. too, right on top of the mulch with their thieving roots well established down in the soil.

If you have a very large, old tree that blooms well just leave it alone. You'll not have large ponacles of blooms but you'll have lots of small blooms. It's next to impossible to prune a large tree unless you have a man and a tall ladder. If your crepe myrtle is old and doesn't bloom well, cut it down to 3 or 4 feet and let it start all over again. In any case, fertilize the plant well.

About Linens

Several years ago I judged linens at a fair in another part of the state. I'll never forget a handsome linen hand-made cut work table cloth. As winner of a national contest giving her the title of "the woman has done the most for American Horticulture in 1954," Mrs. Colquitt, known as Minnie to her friends, will receive an all-expense paid tour of Europe. The contest, which had 1,177 nominees was sponsored by the Horticulture Society of New York City and the Horticulture Travel Foundation, Mrs. Colquitt was selected winner on the basis of her work in directing flower shows, teaching, writing, editing, lecturing, research, plant breeding and ordinary gardening. Formal presentation of the foundation award will be made by Adrian Frylink, official of the two organizations, at a dinner in Shreveport on February 23. Guests at the dinner will include city officials, officers of the Louisiana Garden Club Federation, local garden club leaders and personal friends of Mrs. Colquitt. The tour is scheduled to begin April 13 and will include visits to horticulture shows in France, Belgium, England, Scotland and Ireland.

The colorful and beautiful flower show at the Garden Center this week was staged by members of the Caldwell Parish Garden Club in Columbia. Mrs. L. P. Craighead of Delhi and Mrs. C. C. Lucky, Monroe judged the show. In the arrangement class first place was awarded to Mrs. M. D. Ballard. Second place award went to Miss Lola Caldwell for a naturalistic arrangement of King Alfred daffodils. In a flat black container Miss Caldwell used green moss from the woods and arranged the King Alfreds just as if they were growing in the moss. This arrangement could bear the title "As Nature Grows." Third place award to Mrs. L. R. Adams, Sr. In a low pale pink container Mrs. Adams created a colorful springtime arrangement of pink gladiolus, King Alfred daffodils and Pink Perfection camellias. The camellias were cut with long stems and foliage. Some were used high in the arrangement, and others placed low, breaking the rim of the container.

In the horticulture class Mrs. Eva Humble was awarded a blue ribbon for Empress Camellia and a red ribbon for salmon gladiolus (greenhouse grown). Mrs. L. G. Adams was awarded a blue ribbon for yellow daffodil. Don't forget next Tuesday, February 22. Mrs. U. B. Evans will be in the Garden Center to help you with your horticulture problems. Jo Mangham exhibited two very beautiful hybrid amaryllis at the Garden Center this week. They have been greatly admired. Newest Presbyterian Church Here Ornate

Covenant Presbyterian Church is one of the most ornate structures of the kind in north Louisiana. Exterior of the church is of English manor type in design. The variegated red brick walls contain projecting clinker brick with accents of limestone. These, with the steep pitched roof, are distinctive features.

Ceilings throughout are accoustically treated. The floors, except those of ceramic tile in the rest rooms and kitchen, are carpeted completely.

Fellowship hall is decorated and has exposed Roman brick walls, oak ceiling beams, tarverstone ceiling and lantern type light fixtures, white oak paneling in white oak trim, varnished in a warm tone.

Baldwin organ and pulpit furniture are finished to match. The plaster walls of the remainder of the building are painted in soft greens. On the south side of the building are warm tans and on the north side or in corridor areas, there is employed white oak varnished light brown.

In locating the building on the site, special pains was taken to provide for future expansion. It is located at one side of the church property bounded by Orell on the front, Milton on the east, and Emerson on the west. It comprises the first unit of the proposed building program

In the future, contemplated construction will be adding another section of class rooms, a recreation room for old and young. Then erection of a large sanctuary with more office facilities, a session room, church parlor and more classroom units.

Covenant Church Shows Unusual 3 Year Growth

The statistical report for the church year (April - December) 1953 shows 14 additions by profession of faith and ten by certificate with 10 adults presented for baptism and 10 for infant baptism.

Total contributions for that year were $53,335.

For the year 1954 there were 12 added on profession of faith and 44 by certificate; 13 adult baptisms and 20 infant baptisms. Total contributions for the year were $59,391.

Membership January 1, 1955 stood at 364. A total of 431 members have been received into Covenant in three years time.

Presbytery Of Red River Has Meeting Here

It became the happy privilege of Covenant church to have its first meeting of the Presbytery held in this new church on January 25, 1955. The Moderator of the General Assembly, Dr. Wade H. Boggs, delivered the principal sermon. While messages were also delivered by other leaders in the Red River Presbytery.

The Red River Presbytery including all north Louisiana, has jurisdiction over forty - three churches; there are 35 ministers and ten candidates for the ministry. It was an honor to have this group select Convenant church as the meeting place.

COVENANT CHURCH

A special memorial fund dedicated to the purchase of pulpit furniture in the future sanctuary has been set aside and invested.

Other memorial gifts have provided appointments for the altar, chancel, church library, and classrooms.

The United States had 26,750,000 births during the past 10 years.

SOUTHERN GARDENER—

By William Lanier Hunt

Prepare Soil Before Planting

If you haven't already got it, go out and get it! Spring fever is better caught soon than late because there never seems to be enough days in February and March to get all our planting done. Dig your holes deep and do not stint on the humus you mix with your soil. Remember that clay soils will need one bushel of some kind of humus to every two bushels of soil worked in or chopped together and a big double handful of bone meal for each bushel of the mixture before you put it back into the hole. Deep holes and plenty of humus will save you a lot of watering in the hot summer days.

If you really want to enjoy growing perennials, annuals and bulbs, prepare the soil in your flower beds so that you can dig in them at any time you wish. Soil that is approximately one third clay, one third coarse sand and one third humus can be handled even right after a rain. Now you know the secret of these "green thumb" people who just dig into their flower beds and hand you a nice clump of something to take home with you. Most of us have too many flower beds and too little money to dig them all up at once and prepare the soil two feet deep, but we can work over one bed at a time. Be careful that you do not use fine sand instead of coarse in your soil preparation or you may have soil that is as hard as a brick when it dries. Never let the sun touch your soil. Nature doesn't. She manages to cover up her soil with something or other almost everywhere. Man uncovers it, and she goes around covering it back up as fast as she can. Unfortunately, man has a fiendish machine known as a bulldozer and has the score on his side. In the garden, there should always be a mulch of some kind over your soil. Here in the south, our soil gets too hot for many kinds of perennials unless we keep it mulched at all times.

There is always the question of what kind of humus one can get for soil preparation and mulches. For a long time, people were afraid to use saw dust because they had been warned that it was bad for plants. It is good for plants on one condition: that it be thoroughly rotten. Around a big pile of saw dust, you can find the most decayed material out at the edges where moisture and nitrogen have helped the bacteria to rot the particles. Even rotten saw dust will need a double handful of some complete fertilizer mixed with each bushel before you use it in the garden. If you fail to put in the fertilizer, your plants will go backward.

Sawdust and peat moss are ideal humus materials because there are no weed seeds nor bits of Bermuda grass, Johnson grass or other pests in them. There are many other kinds of humus like rotted straw, bagasse, chip mold and so on, but the proportion to use is always up to one third humus and two thirds heavy soil. There is nothing like coarse sand to hold the particles of soil apart all the year around. This coarse sand will not go away. The humus in soil is constantly being broken down and must be replaced from time to time, but the sand you put into your beds will always be there. It keeps your dirt in such a condition, along with the humus, that you can almost stick your fingers right down into the ground three or four inches deep with no trouble at all. This mixture is a living growing, breathing compost. You have never really gardened until you have made some soil the right way and seen how plants jump when they are set out in it! To set plants out in unprepared soil is simply nature - faking.

LIFE OF GEORGE WASHINGTON

Happy Years at Mount Vernon—6

While serving his country, George Washington always longed to return to Mount Vernon. He did so as soon as he could.

Happy to call himself a farmer once more, he rose early and spent hours riding over his farms, telling workmen what to do, hunting, and giving advice to neighbors who asked for it.

Famous people visited him including the French general, Lafayette, shown with him here, who helped him in the war. Lafayette's son was another visitor and the house usually was full of young folks. Washington was very happy.

He died at last at Mount Vernon at the age of 67 and is buried there. Thousands of Americans visit his home and grave every year.

In coloring, leave the house white. Now you should have a six-part picture story of the first President that you can read on his birthday next Tuesday.

REV. W. W. GRAY

Rev. Wayne W. Gray, who began his duties as minister of Covenant Presbyterian Church a little more than two years ago, has had a highly successful career here.

Leaders of the church here picked him as they found an unblemished record. He was educated at Southwestern in Memphis, later in Princeton Theological Seminary. He held two pastorates, one at Clarendon, Ark. and one at Caruthersville, Mo., before he went for five years as chaplain in World War Two.

At the close of the war, he became assistant pastor of Evergreen Presbyterian Church in Memphis, Tenn. and it was there that he was contacted and offered the local pastorate.

As indication of his leadership was his successful membership in Rotary while in Memphis, Tenn. His ability led to his being elected district governor for eastern Missouri, 1939-1940.

He is an active member of Rotary here and a leader in all that will advance the religious welfare of the Twin Cities.

The public is extended a cordial invitation to attend the Open House at Covenant Presbyterian Church today from 3 to 6 p.m. It will be observance of the third birthday of the church and the completion of the first of three units of the fast growing church.

Answer to Question No. 1

1. Yes. They should learn from friends and enemies all they possibly can about each other's families; education; health; heredity; ambitions; and previous love affairs, and their results. Marriage is highly dangerous for both if either is caught on the rebound from a love disappointment. Our booklet, "How To Pick a Mate," tells what questions to ask, an how to ask them. Nonprofit, 15 cents (coin only) plus self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Answer to Question No. 2

2. Historians believe there was no organized war until tribes became semi-civilized, owned lands and domesticated animals, and originated the idea of property. Then, under an ambitious leader, war became a habit, either to seize the adjoining land, cattle, etc.—sometimes the women—or else to convert the other fellow to his religion. A pleasing way to spread "sweetness and light."

Answer to Question No. 3

3. The books on philosophy and religion define the moral codes of a people, but their general precepts are found in stories, poems, and songs for children. Right always triumphs. The villain is always defeated; the hero, victorious. But these stories go further and show what kind of conduct makes heroes (helpfulness, sympathy, bravery), and what kind makes villains (cruelty, brutality, greed.)

Your Success in Marriage

Opening lead: Two of diamonds.

Today we feature another safety play which will not be found in the catalog. It is one of many which declarer must design for himself to guard against an undesired break in the trump suit.

South reached a contract of five clubs more or less on his own power, and though East had gone somewhat beyond his resources to put up a defense against his vulnerable opponents West did not manifest the same type of enterprise.

It seems to this department that he should have proceeded on the assumption that his side had not sufficient defense against the five club contract and that a sacrifice bid of five diamonds should not prove costly in view of the fact tricks himself. The singleton club and the four trumps should keep the losses within bounds.

West led the two of diamonds and East won with the queen. To some players it would appear tempting to return the singleton heart on the chance of obtaining a ruff, but in the face of South's vigorous bidding, East held forth little hope of finding West with the ace. He decided rather to attack dummy's entry on the remote chance that he could in this manner prevent the run of the heart suit. Dummy's only entry was the fourth club which East hoped to force out by returning a diamond. East knew, of course, that declarer held one more of the suit for West's lead of the deuce showed that he could have no more than four.

Lack of foresight will result in defeat of the contract if declarer in his anxiety to win all the tricks ruffs in dummy, for when the clubs break 3-1 he will be unable to reach the North hand to cash the three heart tricks. Declarer cautiously refused to win the trick, discarding a spade from dummy, and East could find no effective defense.

On a casual analysis it may appear that declarer could bring home the contract even if he ruffs the diamond return, but actually he cannot do so against sound defense. After ruffing the diamond, presumably declarer draws only two trumps and then plays the ace and king of hearts. If East trumps, declarer is home, but if East properly discards a diamond, declarer will be forced to give up two spade tricks.

Opening lead: Two of diamo

Today we feature another s play which will not be found in catalog. It is one of many w declarer must design for him to guard against an undes break in the trump suit.

South reached a contract of clubs more or less on his own er, and though East had somewhat beyond his resource put up a defense against his nerable opponents. West did manifest the same type of e prise.

It seems to this department he should have proceeded on assumption that his side had sufficient defense against the club contract and that a sacr bid of five diamonds should prove costly in view of the tricks himself. The singleton and the four trumps should the losses within bounds.

West led the two of diamo and East won with the queen some players it would ap tempting to return the singl heart on the chance of obtainin ruff, but in the face of South's orous bidding, East held forth tle hope of finding West with ace. He decided rather to at dummy's entry on the rer chance that he could in this n ner prevent the run of the h suit. Dummy's only entry was fourth club which East hope force out by returning a diam East knew, of course, that dec er held one more of the suit West's lead of the deuce sho that he could have no more four.

Lack of foresight will resul defeat of the contract if decl n his anxiety to win all the tr ruffs in dummy, for when clubs break 3-1 he will be un o reach the North hand to he three heart tricks. Dec r cautiously refused to win rick, discarding a spade f dummy, and East could find no eceive defense.

It's that DIAL feeling –

More than a feeling, it's a fact: with Dial Soap you never worry about perspiration odor. You see, normal perspiration has no odor until skin bacteria go to work on it. And ordinary soaps just can't get rid of bacteria effectively. But Dial Soap does. It removes up to 95% of these odor-causers, because Dial is the one leading soap with AT-7 (Hexachlorophene). There's nothing else as good for keeping odor away. Dial's AT-7 clings to your skin, so it protects you all day—and several days if need be. That's why folks who use Dial every day say they just don't feel as clean with any other soap. Dial stops odor before it starts.

Aren't you glad you use Dial Soap?
